MURDER ON OTHER.

HITS MEN HIGHER UP

Can Involve Three Big Officials by Their Confessions—Are Told to
"Throw Becker to the Wolves."

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Bulletin, New York, Aug. 15.—After having been in session today more than two hours the grand jury which has been considering the murder of Herman Rosenthal, noted District Attorney Whitman, that they did not feel warranted in hanging up further indictments charging murder in the first degree until they had heard more evidence. This evidence, it is expected, will come from Sam Schopp, now on his way from Hot Springs. This turn of affairs came after Frank Moss, assistant district attorney, had announced confidently that he had "practically a complete case" against all defendants of the grand jury. In the strength of this statement it had been predicted that indictments would be returned against the four men involved and against Jack Sullivan and Libbey and Shapiro, owners of the "murder car." It also was understood that a superceding indictment would be returned against Lieutenant Becker to cover a possible flaw in the indictments already found. All these plans fell through, however, when the grand jurors insisted on hearing the testimony of Schopp.

New York, Aug. 15.—Threatened with death if they revealed information regarding the "three men higher up" in the gambling graft scandal, "Bridge" Webber and Harry Vallon, the two associates of "Bald Jack" Rose, may prove to be reluctant witnesses. The two prisoners are confronted on the other hand by a possible indictment charging them with murder of the gambler Herman Rosenthal unless they tell the truth. The two prisoners are trying to decide which course to pursue. "Webber has been reached" and told, according to Vallon's counsel, to "Throw Becker to the wolves" but to shield the names of the three men now regarded by the state's attorney as directors of the graft system. Attorney Whitman has left to the prisoners to determine what attitude they will take. James M. Sullivan, Vallon's lawyer, stated that for some time messengers from those "higher up" and from one certain policeman have fictitiously visited Vallon and Webber in their cells and told them they might tell what they pleased about Becker, but that if they informed on the big fellows, they might as well make up their minds to meet death later on.

Mr. Sullivan said after visiting Whitman: "Whitman has made a case against Becker and none of the Becker blackmailing employes seem to care a hang about the Becker situation. In fact, they sent word to Rose, Webber and Vallon to 'throw Becker to the wolves' but that the names of the men higher up should not be brought out. Rose will make good, but Webber and Vallon, I believe have made up their minds to weaken. I have told Vallon that he is not playing square and that I will no longer act as his counsel." In the confession of "Bald Jack" Rose printed this morning, the state declared that Becker had decided to kill Rosenthal himself if they had not done the work. After the murder Rose says he met Becker by appointment near the scene of the killing.

In his written confession Rose says: "I opened the conversation by saying, 'My God Charley this is horrible.' There will be — to pay, he said. What is the matter don't worry leave that all to me. I asked how did you see him and he said you saw that squint and I would like to have taken my knife out and cut a piece of his tongue out and hang it on the building as a warning to possible future squealers. He said I was saved the trouble of doing it myself, he said I became tired of waiting for you fellows with the guns to do it, so I decided tonight to do it myself."

"I asked him how." Well he said after I left Jim Sullivan I instructed Otto to drive by the Meripole and to slow down without stopping. I intended if Rosenthal was there to take out my gun take away at him and then tell Otto to go ahead, I said well what about those fellows he said I will take good care of everybody concerned. He said he would see that the fellows got money to get out of town, say about $1000 between them and said he would get $1500 from Webber.

The grand jury prepared to continue its investigation into the case today. District Attorney Whitman and the state's attorney are making an investigation of real estate transactions. Information having come to the state's attorney that within the last year one policeman has invested over $200,000 in choice up-town lots.

"Whitely" Louis had his face swathed in bandages, but attendants explained he was suffering from a boil and had not been involved in any fighting of late.

Mr. Moss' reference to "a practically complete case," referred to the deliberations of the Rosenthal grand jury which is expected to hand up indictments against all prisoners, including a re-indictment against Becker before Judge Mulqueen some time this afternoon.

Schopp to New York.
Hot Springs, Aug. 15.—Sam Schopp, wanted as a material witness in the Herman Rosenthal murder case in New York city, left here at 7:40 this morning in charge of Assistant District Attorney Rubin and his detectives. Rubin maintained his decision to obey literally the instructions of District Attorney Whitman not to announce the route to be taken or the probable time of arrival in New York. It was not until late yesterday that Schopp made up his mind to return with Rubin to New York. Probably the arrival of Stewart, a prosecutor's detective, imperiled the decision. Stewart had plenty of credentials and after he talked with Schopp the prisoner readily consented to start for Hot Springs, Thursday morning.

Schopp seemed to have many partisans during his visit in Hot Springs. Led by Mrs. Pettit, the wife of the acting mayor, many of the most prominent women of the city bade the New Yorker good-bye yesterday afternoon. They invited him to visit Hot Springs when he could come under more agreeable circumstances.

COMMISSION TO AID TRAFFIC SITUATION

State Railroad Commission Will Inform Manufacturers of Threatened Car Shortage.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Madison, Wis., Aug. 15.—Wisconsin and other Northwestern states face a car shortage unparalleled in railroad history since 1907. Traffic managers of leading western railroads, cooperating with the Association of Western Railways, are writing letters to shippers forecasting a scarcity of rolling stock within the next thirty days unless all interests cooperate for the prompt handling of shipments. Following this advice the Wisconsin railroad commission is notifying leading manufacturers of the impending danger. It recommends that orders for future shipments be placed as soon as possible and that every effort be made to load and unload equipment so that there may be no delay in holding cars.

W. A. Garrett, chairman of the Association of Western Railways, in a letter to the state railroad commission, declared that "if the bad condition now threatening is to be averted, they (the railroads) must have the heartiest support and cooperation of the shippers and consignees of the country. Now, the crop prospects in the west are unusually good. That helps to make the prospects of the car shortage unusually bad."

In letters received from Darius Miller, president of the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy Railway company, and from the traffic managers of the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul and the Chicago and Northwestern Railway companies, the railroad commission is urged to have all consumers of coal purchase their supply for the winter months as soon as possible. Otherwise they say there may be some delay in getting their fuel.

"I trust," said President Miller of the Burlington, "that your commission will lend us your assistance in every way that it can, and through your own method, to bring the necessary home to the commercial organizations, shippers and consignees in your state, of active and earnest cooperation in the handling and use of equipment and the ordering of supplies as far in advance as possible, so that all reasonable effort may be made to avoid the repetition of the unfortunate condition which existed in the fall of 1911."

The railroad commission believes the crisis will come within the next thirty days. In letters to the railroad companies today, Chairman John H. Roemer of the Wisconsin railroad commission declares, "We shall give the matter wide publicity in this state and try to carry out the recommendations as best we can."

TO USE AREOPLANES IN FIGHTING REBELS

General Huerta Plans to Employ Them Against Orozco's Forces at Juarez—United States Troops to Border.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Chihuahua, Aug. 15.—Aeroplanes will be employed by Gen. Huerta in his campaign against the rebels unless Orozco's forces at Juarez contrive to scatter in small bands making warfare impracticable.

The two aeroplanes recently purchased by the war department and tested at Torreón, have been sent here and it is probable they will be sent this week to Gallegos for scouting expeditions.

Sent to Front.
San Antonio, Aug. 15.—The third squadron of the Third United States cavalry, consisting of troops I and K and M, has been ordered by Colonel Steever to report immediately at Ft. Bliss with thirty days' rations for border service. Preparations are being made to entrain these troops to leave. This will make eight troops of the Third cavalry on duty at Fort Bliss.

NEWSPAPER LEAGUE OFFICERS ELECTED

H. H. Bliss of Janesville Named Secretary-Treasurer of Wisconsin
Daily League.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Oshkosh, Aug. 15.—The Wisconsin Daily League representing fifteen of the newspapers of the state elected the following officers at the annual summer meeting and outing today. President F. E. Noyes, Marinette; vice-president, O. J. Hardy, Oshkosh; secretary and treasurer, H. H. Bliss, Janesville. All were reelected. The next place of meeting was not decided upon.

Last evening the representatives were given a ride on the Palms yacht. This was followed by a banquet at the Oshkosh yacht club given by Col. John Hicks.

ALASKANS IN NEED OF GOVERNMENT AID

Have Not Recovered From Destruction
Wrought by Volcanic Eruption Last June.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Washington, Aug. 15.—Alaska has not yet recovered from the effects of the volcanic eruptions of Mt. Katmai in June and the federal government will be obliged to furnish rations and supplies to many people for some time to come. The people of Kodiak Island are in need of quick, immediate attention. Their vegetable crop is ruined. Secretary Blount has ordered ten tons of potatoes shipped from Seattle to prevent scurvy from breaking out.

Alagnak Island is recovered to some extent, but it will need emergency rations during the coming winter. People on the mainland who were rendered homeless by the eruption have established a new town, one hundred and fifty miles west of the volcano and have called it Perry, in honor of Captain Perry of the revenue cutter Manning, who rescued five hundred people in the catastrophe here brought by a letter of commendation from President Taft. The village is flourishing and needs no assistance.

MURDER NOT INTENT OF TIMES DISASTER

Darrow Speaks in His Own Behalf
This Morning and Declares Mc-Namara Innocent of Taking Lives.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Los Angeles, Calif., Aug. 15.—In order that more time be given the final argument for Clarence S. Darrow in his own behalf the Darrow bribery trial was called at 8:30 this morning, an hour and a half earlier than regular time. Darrow expected to speak until the time expired and District Attorney John Fredericks is to give the closing argument in the afternoon session. Darrow declared that the blow up of the Times Building was not the result of a plot to take lives. He said that the McNamara were not guilty of murder. The dynamite placed in the building was done wrongfully and criminally, but with no thought of taking human lives. "The explosion started in the printing department unfortunately. There was gas or oil that ignited and fire destroyed those lives."

MANY OLD SOLDIERS AT ANNUAL REUNION

JOHN TULLER OF EVANVILLE
NAMED PRESIDENT OF ROCK
COUNTY UNION—FINE
PROGRAM GIVEN.

ARE GUESTS AT RACES

C. S. Putnam, Secretary of Race Meet, Extends Invitation to Veterans and Wives—
Registration List.

Realizing that the number of comrades who will attend each succeeding reunion of civil war veterans, will gradually diminish as the years go on, "the Boys of '61" in Rock county made a special effort to be present at the seventeenth annual reunion of the Rock county soldiers and sailors which was held in this city today.

Large delegations were present from the posts at Deloit, Edgerton, Clinton, Milton, Milton Junction, Evansville and Janesville in this county and from the posts at Rockford, Ill., Whitewater, Ft. Atkinson, and Jefferson to whom invitations had been extended. The headquarters for the reunion was at the East Side Odd Fellows hall where the business session was called to order at ten o'clock this morning by President L. E. Moseley. The following officers were elected: president, John Tuller, Evansville; vice-president, J. H. Carle, Janesville; secretary, A. C. Gray, Evansville; treasurer, John E. Davidson, Milton; and chaplain, Rev. W. F. Brown, Beloit.

Dinner was served to the veterans and their wives at the club dining room at twelve o'clock by the members of the local relief corps.

Members of the life and drum corps were present and vigorously dispensed martial music which stirred the hearts of the comrades.

The social session and program this afternoon were held at the lodge assembly room. The following program was enjoyed:

Piano solo, Miss Mary Gage.
Invocation by chaplain, Rev. W. F. Brown.
Recitation, Mrs. T. L. Mason, Janesville.
Recitation, Mrs. T. L. Mason, Evansville.
Address, Rev. E. D. Kohlstedt, Beloit.

Vocal solo, Col. E. O. Kimberly, Janesville.
Recitation, Mrs. Fred L. Smith, Janesville.
Address, Lieut. Col. J. A. Watrous, Milwaukee.
Short addresses by comrades present.

Secretary Chas. S. Putnam of the Janesville Driving Park association, extended a cordial invitation to the comrades and their wives to attend the race meet at the driving park this afternoon. The red badge of the reunion was all that was necessary for an admission ticket and many of the veterans enjoyed the horse races following the program which was over shortly before four o'clock. Altogether it was a memorable day for the "Boys of '61" and all agreed to return next year if possible.

The following Grand Army men were registered at the reunion: C. N. Riker, Co. G, 8th Wis.; John Ashley, Co. I, 33rd N. Y.; O. C. Garthwaite, Co. K, 13th Wis.; W. H. Walker, Co. HILLES IS PLEASED AT THE PROSPECTS OF TAFT CAMPAIGN

"Republican Campaign is On to Win," Says Chairman As He Departs
for New York.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Chicago, Aug. 15.—Charles J. Hilles, chairman of the republican national committee, departed for New York today. He announced that he had received encouraging reports from nearly all the national committeemen in the various states.

"The republican campaign is on and it is on to win," he said. Among others with whom Hilles held conferences were John T. Adams of Iowa, and Frank Gilbert of Wisconsin. Today Mr. Hilles met H. J. Grell of Wisconsin; William Hayward, former secretary of the national committee, and Mr. Elitch, collector of internal revenue in Chicago.

Announcement was made of the appointment of John C. Eversman, secretary to Congressman William B. McKinley, as assistant secretary of the national committee. Announcement was also made of the appointment of Walter H. Wilson of Chicago as assistant treasurer of the committee. Work at the Chicago headquarters of the new progressive party marked time today awaiting the return of United States Senator Joseph M. Dixon, Mr. Hill McCord and other leaders from New York. Plans were made for important meetings on Saturday.

Robert H. Patton of Springfield, state chairman of the prohibition party, today announced he would begin an auto tour of the state August 23, accompanied by Eugene W. Chaffin, presidential candidate, and Frank B. Venum, candidate for state treasurer.

CORRUPT PRACTICES ACT RULING WANTED

Some Doubt Expressed Whether Candidate Can Be Kept From Ticket For Failing To File Expenses.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Madison, Aug. 15.—Assistant secretary of state L. B. Nagler has asked the attorney general for an interpretation of clause in the corrupt practice act regarding the filing of expense accounts. There is some doubt as to the intent of the legislature to exclude a candidate from having his name go on the ticket for failing to file his expense account a week before the primaries.

The democratic central committee by its treasurer, E. G. Schmedeman, filed an expense account today showing disbursements of $400. A list of contributors to the campaign fund is attached. Most of the candidates on the state ticket are shown as having given financial aid. Of the candidates for the governorship only A. G. Schmitz is listed as a contributor. His check being $100. The total receipts of the committee are $353.50.

CERTAIN OF MURDER OF AMERICAN CONSUL

Colombian Government Will Be Given Opportunity to Punish Assassins of Wm. McMaster.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Washington, Aug. 15.—William McMaster, American vice consul at Cartagena, Colombia, whose dead body was found in the jungle ten miles from that city last Monday was murdered, American Consul Kemper at Cartagena today reported that evidence so far gathered bears out such a charge.

The Colombian government will have an opportunity to punish the assassins before any action is taken by the United States.

Are Investigating.
Bogota, Colombia, Aug. 15.—The investigation into the death of William McMaster, the United States vice consul at Cartagena, whose body was found in the jungle ten miles from that city on Monday was proved without doubt that he was murdered. No clues as to the perpetrators of the crime which was committed while Mr. McMaster was on a hunting trip have been discovered.

STATE PAPERS WILL MAKE APPEAL TO FREE FARMER

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Manitowoc, Aug. 15.—State papers are in preparation for an appeal to the Radeo cause, heard at the present term of circuit court and which resulted in the commitment of John Radeo, a Manichville farmer, to Waupun for a term of eighteen years. Radeo was convicted for second degree murder for the killing of John Roland, a farm hand, on his farm, who was shot as a result of Roland's alleged ill-treatment of an aged woman relative of Radeo.

BIG CITY DELEGATES WINNERS IN DISPUTE

Retail Druggists Decide That Larger Cities Can Have Full Voting Rights Without Full Representation.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Milwaukee, Aug. 15.—Delegates from the larger cities attending the convention of the national retail druggists were victorious today in the dispute over voting credentials. None of the city associations have full quota of delegates present, but claim the full number of votes to which they would be entitled by the constitution were all delegates present. In this contention they were sustained by a majority vote despite the recommendation of the credentials committee. A campaign to secure the co-operation of physicians in effecting a general use of standard grade drugs based on a United States pharmacopoeia and national formulas was discussed, following the report of the committee on propaganda. One of the resolutions adopted by the convention favors the appointment of Dr. James H. Beal of Ohio to the position of chief of the bureau of chemistry to succeed Dr. Harvey Wiley, resigned. Resolution was forwarded to President Taft.

MILLIONAIRES ONLY AT THIS LAWN PARTY

President Taft Sole Exception Among Persons Invited to Party of Henry C. Frick.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Boston, Mass., Aug. 15.—The "million-dollar lawn party" which Henry C. Frick, the steel magnate, is to give at his Frides Crossing estate on Friday night of this week, promises to establish a new high-water mark for lavish entertainment among the North Shore colony, whose summer residents include many of the wealthiest and most prominent families in all sections of the country. Excepting President Taft, every man present will be a millionaire, and the entire affair will be conducted on a scale of magnificence calculated to make the old New Englanders gasp with wonder.

A Nahant contracting firm has signed a contract which obliges them to lay a smooth and perfect dancing floor on the Frick lawn between the hours of 7 and 9 on Friday evening and to take it up again between the hours of 1 and 3 on the following morning. This contract is typical of all the arrangements that have been made for the fête. It is Mr. Frick's intention that his lawn shall present its unusually orderly and well-kept appearance at dark on Friday evening and again at daybreak on Saturday morning, but for the four hours between 9 p. m. and 1 a. m. it will be transformed into a fairland. It is said that the party will represent the largest gathering of millionaires ever assembled at one time in this or any other country.

OWENS LAYS SENTIMENT SHIFTS TO INCOME TAX

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Madison, Aug. 15.—Senator Walter C. Owens of Madison took a supporter of the income tax law declared in an interview here today that sentiment is shifting in its favor and that its opponents have misrepresented it. "Not one specific instance has been cited," he said, "where a single industry has left the state as result of the income tax law. Not only are industries not leaving the state, but statistics show that the number of persons doing business in Wisconsin is considerably on the increase."

FORCE COUNTY TO FIGHT FOR SHARE OF ASSETS

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Manitowoc, Aug. 15.—Manitowoc county will be forced to make a fight to share in the dividends in the bankruptcy case of George Rickman Sons Co. contractors who erected the $200,000 courthouse two years ago and against whom the county has a claim of $7,900. The claim is based on a guarantee which the company gave for a 5 year period covering the roof of the building, but the guarantee was not accompanied by a bond and this may be an important question in the case.

MEET TO COMMEMORATE FT. DEARBORN MASSACRE

Chicago, Aug. 15.—100 years ago the Indians attacked the early settlers of Chicago at Fort Dearborn, in commemoration of the massacre that followed, members of the Chicago's Allied Patriotic and Memorial Societies gathered at the lake front and E. 18th street at ten o'clock this morning to begin service dedicated to the memory of the dead soldiers and pioneers on the spot where the massacre occurred some distance from the fort.

It was that hour a century ago that the massacre of the early settlers was begun.

ENGLAND WILL MAKE NO FURTHER PROTEST

GREAT BRITAIN SATISFIED WITH BILL AS REPORTED FROM CONFERENCE COMMITTEE.

SENATE TARIFF FIGHT

Call in Absent Republican Senators to Thwart Efforts of Democrats To Re-Pass the Vetted Measures.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Washington, Aug. 15.—It is said to be reasonably certain that no further protest will be made by Great Britain on behalf of English mercantile interests against the Panama canal bill if it finally takes the form reported yesterday from the conference committee. The British objection was laid against discrimination against British shipping.

Such shipping is not now privileged to enter into the American coastwise trade which alone is to receive favored treatment in the canal and that objection is overcome. It is regarded as possible, however, that in defense to Canada, the British government may be led to object against the prohibition against the passage of railroad owned ships.

Senate Tariff Fight.

An effort to reach an agreement to dispose of the steel and wool tariff revision bill already passed by the house over the president's veto, failed in the senate today. Unanimous consent to vote on both measures tomorrow was objected to by Senator Briggs because there was a dispute about the arrangement of pairs. Republican leaders decided to call in absent members to meet any attempt by the democrats to re-pass the vetoed bills.

Telegrams were dispatched to all absentees within easy reaching distance of Washington to return to the Capitol. The republican force has been greatly depleted during the last two weeks.

Further Extension.

Last year's appropriation for the conduct of government was further extended to Sept. 1 by a resolution which passed the house today and now goes to the senate. A former extension resolution expired today. This will enable the government to pay army, navy and other establishments which have long been without money. The house is expected today to agree to the senate's amendments to the pension appropriation bill and relieve at once the situation among the veterans.

May Pay Pensions.

Pensions for thousands of veterans held up by disagreement between the house and senate over the 160 million dollar pension appropriation bill, may be paid Saturday. The house today agreed to the senate's demand to abolish the eighteen outlying pension agencies on Feb. 1, and passed the bill with one minor amendment which will be adjusted today. President Taft is expected to sign it immediately.

Military Appointments.

The senate military affairs committee today voted to recommend immediate confirmation of the following military appointments made some time ago by President Taft: Clarence R. Edwards, chief of the bureau of insular affairs, to be brigadier general in the line of the army. Colonel Frank McIntire to be chief of the bureau of insular affairs with the rank of brigadier general during a term of four years. Colonel George Andrews to be adjutant general of the army with the rank of brigadier general for a term of four years. Colonel Edgar Steever to be brigadier general.

BOY BURGLARS CONFESS TO ROBBER RESTAURANT

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Chicago, Aug. 15.—Wearing masks over their eyes, two "boy burglars" each twelve years old, were arrested early today and confessed they had robbed a restaurant of $75 a few hours before. They gave their names as Joseph Smith and John Boxzola. Each had a "jimmy" in his possession. When arrested they told the police they were waiting to break in to another "joint."

HAD ENJOYABLE TIME AT LAKE YESTERDAY

Over Three Hundred at Odd Fellows' Picnic—Athletic Contests Feature of Entertainment.

Odd Fellows, Rebekahs, and their families, who journeyed to Fun Hunters' Point, Lake Koshkonong, yesterday to attend the first joint outing of the lodges in District No. 36 spent a very pleasant day. The number of people present, estimated in excess of three hundred, was very representative of the district, and the first of the biggest delegations. The Ft. Atkinson lodge, which is not in the district, was represented by a large number of its members who came down by boat. The literary program was carried out as announced, Grand Master C. W. Crumb of Milton delivering the address of welcome, and N. L. Carle of this city, the response.

Athletic contests of different kinds followed the formal program and business session, and aroused much interest and competition. The tug of war, between teams of six men each, chosen by Mayor Fathers, and P. W. Koebel, is reported one of the best seen in a long time. For twelve minutes the teams opposed one another without giving way on either side. At the end of that time the team chosen by Mayor Fathers pulled its opponents across the line. A box of cigars was awarded the winning team. The other contests, their winners, and the prizes awarded, were as follows:

Men's race—Frank E. Sadler, box of cigars. Ladies' race—Mrs. Kaufman of Edgerton, spoon tray. Race for boys under fourteen, Harold Boyce, ball and bat. Race for girls under fourteen, Dill Mason, ring. Three-legged race—Fred Blakely and Frank Sadler, spoons. Sack race—Fred Blakely, roly-poly. Ball throwing contest for ladies—Mrs. Kaufman, basket. Boat race—Fred Koebel, 1st, st. Blakely, 2nd, cigars. Nail-driving contest for ladies—Mrs. William Parrish, cake plate. Guessing contest—Flavia Blakely, purse.

ROBERT J. COURTNEY AGAIN SENT TO JAIL

Liquor Again Proves His Undoing—Five Others Arraigned On Charge of Being Intoxicated.

One glass too many again proved the undoing of Robert J. Courtney who this morning pleaded guilty in the municipal court to a charge of being found intoxicated and was sentenced to ten days imprisonment in jail and to pay a fine of $10 and costs or stay in jail fifteen days longer. Courtney was placed under arrest yesterday morning, complaint being made that he was accusing women on the street. He was but last week released from jail on a charge of making threats against his wife on giving his personal bond to keep the peace. Adam Geddes was arrested on the city lot opposite the city hall yesterday morning and a charge of intoxication was filed against him today. To this he entered a plea of "not guilty." His trial was taken up at once and on the testimony of Chief of Police Appleby he was convicted and sentenced to pay a fine of $8 and costs or go to jail for five days. He took jail sentence.

Philly Barnum also pleaded "not guilty" to a charge of intoxication. Chief Appleby then withdrew the charge and filed a charge of indecent conduct against him. Barnum was arrested at the Northwestern station last night.

Adolph Paulsen, John Nelson, and John Eynes were each asked to pay fines of $2 and costs or take five days in jail. Paulsen was the only one of the number to pay his fine.

COMMISSION ACTION IS EXPECTED SOON

Mayor Fathers Says Next Step To Ward Purchase Of Waterworks Must Be Taken By State Body.

Mayor Fathers, when interviewed this morning relative to the purchase of the Water Works, said "The Council has gone along with this matter as fast as it could consistent with its proper performance of this and its other duties. The law under which the city must now proceed is a part of the Utility Law and provides in substance that when a municipality shall have determined to acquire an existing plant, then operated under an indeterminate permit as provided in Section 1797 M-77, by a vote of a majority of the electors voting thereon at any general, municipal or special election at which the question of the purchase of such plant shall have been submitted, then the municipality shall give notice of such determination to the Railroad Commission. The Railroad Commission then proceeds to a determination of the value of the plant.

We expect to secure a hearing on this matter within a short time. Routine is at present trying its case before the Commission and there are some points involved in that case which, apply to Janesville as well and we deemed it good business to let them fight out those issues at their expense.

Understand the Railroad Commission to be at present swamped with work, but all reasonable haste will be made to get an early valuation on the local plant in accordance with the instructions given us by the voters at the polls."

JAMES M'GOWAN DIES NEAR CENTURY MARK

Passed Away This Morning at Home in Johnstown Center at Age of Ninety-Five Years—Family At Beside.

At the age of ninety-five years, James McGowan, one of the oldest men in Rock county and the state, died at his home in Johnstown Center at 3:30 o'clock this morning, his wife, aged ninety-three, and all his surviving children and grand-children being at his bedside. He had been in poor health for several years. Mr. McGowan was born in Ballyknock, County Antrim, Ireland, June 1, 1818, and emigrated to this country in 1850, first settling in New York city. He spent a year there and a year in Pittsburgh, coming to Rock county July 27, 1852. He settled at Johnstown Center and has resided there ever since. Mr. McGowan was a republican in politics and cast his first vote for John C. Fremont. For many years he was an elder of the Rock Prairie United Presbyterian church. On January 21, 1893, Mr. and Mrs. McGowan celebrated their golden wedding, and ten years later, their sixtieth wedding anniversary.

Nine children were born to Mr. and Mrs. McGowan, four of which died in childhood, and one, Eliza C., at the age of twenty-one. Those surviving are, Henry, of Clear Lake, Iowa, Mary and Anna, living at home, the Rev. J. Wallace McGowan, of Lenoir, South Dakota, and two grand-children, James and Mollie McGowan, of Clear Lake, Iowa.

The funeral service will be held at the home in Johnstown Center, at 2 o'clock Saturday afternoon, the Rev. S. G. Huey of St. Louis, formerly pastor of the Rock Prairie Presbyterian church, officiating.

Mrs. Kate Vargnes.

Word was received here yesterday of the death yesterday morning in Minneapolis of Mrs. Kate Vargnes, who passed away at her home there. Mrs. Vargnes formerly resided in Janesville and has many friends here who will be grieved to learn of her death. She is survived by a husband and two daughters, her mother, Mrs. Mary Carlsen of this city, a sister, Mrs. Julia Keesey of this city, and three brothers, Charles Carlsen of Chicago, and Henry and John Carlsen of California. The funeral will be held in Minneapolis Friday. Mrs. Keesey left last evening for Minneapolis to attend the funeral.

Julius Miller.

Last services for the late Julius Miller were conducted at the home of J. F. Stendel, 613 South Academy street, at one o'clock yesterday afternoon, and at the German Lutheran church at one thirty o'clock. The Rev. C. J. Koerner was the officiating pastor. Interment was made in Oak Hill cemetery. Those who acted as pall bearers were Gustave Manthel, Hernas Zahn, Julius Behting, August Piske, Fred Lemke and Charles Hell.

J. Newton Clarida.

The funeral of J. Newton Clarida will be held at 2 o'clock tomorrow afternoon at the home. Rev. Williams pastor of the Cergill Methodist church will conduct the service. Interment will be made in Oak Hill cemetery. The Odd Fellows will attend in a body.

Mrs. Bridget Birmingham.

Mrs. Bridget Birmingham, for more than fifty years a resident of this city, died at ten o'clock last night at her home, 553 South Jackson street. She had been ill and failing rapidly for the last month. Mrs. Birmingham was born in Galway, Ireland. Surviving her are her husband, John Birmingham, and two sons, Thomas, of this city, and Michael F. of Milwaukee. She also leaves five grand-children, Frank, William, Margaret, and Thomas Birmingham of this city, and Miss May Nolan of Madison. The funeral will be held Saturday morning at 10:00 a. m. in St. Patrick's church.

The automatic telephone exhibition will be here but a few days longer. See it—a marvelous apparatus—at Putnam's Store Open evenings.

FLIRTING ISN'T A RECENT PASTIME.

Took Collar Button From Lung.
A little lad living in East Thirteenth street, New York, while playing around the house some time ago, swallowed a gold-plated collar button. His mother applied household remedies, but without success. The child was taken to Bellevue hospital, suffering from pneumonia, which soon developed into pleurisy. An X-ray photograph was taken of the boy's chest, showing a foreign substance in the right lung. An assistant in the X-ray laboratory suggested rephotographing the lad, using a more highly sensitized plate. This was done and the print showed the collar button plainly. An operation was then performed on the boy. A three-inch incision was made over the lung and the button removed successfully. The operating surgeon has the boy's mother's permission to keep the button and he announced his intention of having a watch charm made of it.

Fingers and the Calendar.
No doubt most people remember the number of days in any particular month by recalling the rhymes they learned at school. Another method is practiced in Iceland, and it is so simple and ingenious as to be worth knowing. Shut the fist and let the knuckle of the forefinger represent January with its thirty-one days, and the depression between that and the next knuckle will represent February with its lesser number of days. And thus every month that corresponds to a knuckle will be found to contain thirty-one days; and every month that corresponds to a depression a less number of days. The little finger will represent July, and beginning again with the forefinger knuckle it stands for August, and from this one continues to count through the months of the year.—Harper's Weekly.

MRS. HARRY CARROLL SUMMONED BY DEATH

Young Woman Dies At Home Of Mrs. T. A. Carroll In Newark After Three Months' Illness.
[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Newark, Wis., Aug. 15.—On Saturday morning, Aug. 10th, 1912, occurred the death of Mrs. Harry Carroll, aged 24 years, at the home of her mother-in-law, Mrs. T. A. Carroll, after an illness of about three months with stomach trouble.

The deceased went to the home of her mother-in-law the previous Sunday for a short visit, during which she was taken seriously ill. Her death is a great shock to the community in which the young woman resided, as she was very popular and well known to a large circle of friends.

Mrs. Carroll was born in Oakfield, Wisconsin, but had lived near Beloit for several years. Before her marriage four years ago, she had taught school for some time and since her marriage has lived on the Emerson farm, eight miles west of Beloit.

She is survived by her husband and one daughter, Marie, aged three years. Her parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Chapman, of Peconica, and a sister, Mrs. James Carroll, also survive her. Funeral services were held Monday morning at 10:30 from St. Jude's church, Beloit, Wis. Rev. Haug officiating.

The pall bearers were the four brothers-in-law of the deceased, Charles, William, Edward and Arthur Carroll. Interment was made in the Catholic cemetery, Beloit.

Preserving the Beaver.
The efforts to prevent the extermination of the beaver in the Adirondacks have been so successful that there are now more than twenty large beaver colonies on the Raquette river alone, and there is fear of serious damage to poplar timber through the activities of the busy little fellows.

D. C. Bybee, teaming contractor living at 689 Keeling Court, Canton, Ill., is now well rid of a severe and annoying case of kidney trouble. His back pained and he was bothered with headaches and dizzy spells. "I took Foley Kidney Pills just as directed and in a few days I felt much better. My life and strength seemed to come back, my backache left me, I slept well, and I got up free from headache and dizzy spells. I am now all over my trouble and recommend Foley Kidney Pills to everyone. Badger Drug Co.

Dictionary Always Handy Help When Traveling—A Great Book Home or Abroad.

Thinking about that coming visit, or are you planning a business trip? In either event the best investment you can make is six dictionary coupons and a small expense bonus in a black limp-leather "looks-like-a-Bible" New Websterian 1912 Dictionary, illustrated.

Whether on business or pleasure bent, when you travel you will be writing letters, postal cards, or telegrams. In writing a "wire" every word must count its full value and then some, for our space for expression is limited. Let The Gazette dictionary help you out of your difficulty, whether you are sending an important business message or merely writing to your wife.

You can settle many a question that may arise when you are far away from your own library or any public library if you have had the forethought to place that "little black volume in your grip."

It will take up but little room in your luggage, and it will be a big help.

As you look out of your train window you will see "many towns." Some of them may raise your curiosity; you can find something about most of them in The Gazette's reference book.

A great book at home or abroad.

If you are going to visit friends you could not find a more acceptable present for the old or young than the handsome leather-bound volume which has won so many friends in a few weeks' time.

Hal Chase is no bruiser; no wrestler, no weight lifter, no yet a half-back candidate. He is on the contrary, a very slight fellow, built considerably more on speed than draft horse lines. An ounce of surplus flesh could not be found on his frame. He might be able to use 10 pounds or so of it for cushion purposes to good advantage. If he had a pneumatic cushion, here and there he wouldn't get hurt so often. As it is now, some of the bones and ribs that run across his body look like lattice work. This is not meant to knock Hal. He is mighty good.

Big preparations are being made for the young Abe Attel-Purcell bout in Cincinnati. Both of the boxers have been training hard and there is intense rivalry between them.

Lawrence O'Neil, 18-year-old left-handed amateur, pitched a no-hit, no-run game for the St. Gertrude team against the St. Henry club of the Chicago Catholic league, winning his game by the score of 1 to 0.

Ty Cobb wants a contract calling for $15,000 for the next three years. Who doesn't? Ty struck once before the famous Philadelphia break. It was in the spring of 1908, after he had his first stellar year and had helped the Tigers win their first pennant for 20 years. Then Ty had so many Indian attributes, President Navin feared to trust him with as much money as he asked. But Navin came through and so did Ty with more of his own private brand of sensational playing.

It wasn't wine or women that brought about Cy Morgan's undoing with the Athletics. It was his love for automobiles. He just had to drive that car of his in and around Philadelphia every night until 2 or 3 a. m. The result was that he did not get his natural rest, and the automobile so worked on his nerve that he lost his hold as a winning pitcher.

Harry Wolverton has a delicious sense of humor. He can smile right in the face of the disasters that have visited the Yankees.

There have been many changes in the American Association during the past five years and there will be more changes within the next two years. According to the way the cards are being dealt out one of the probable changes in sight will be the resignation of T. M. Chivington as president of the association and his taking over control of the Louisville ball club, now owned by Wm. Grayson. Chivington knows the situation in Louisville better than most people for he handled the business end there for George Tebeau. Louisville has been weak for the A. A. the past year and the magnates figure that Chivington might do a lot of good there.

Cosmopolitan Taxicab Drivers.

A Chinaman and a Japanese are now driving taxicabs in Paris, while the ranks of the drivers also include German-speaking Alsatians, Italian-speaking southerners, Spanish-speaking Basques, and a number of chauffeurs with a good knowledge of English who are either sons of English people settled in France or have visited England or America. It is not unusual to see on the box of the Paris taxicab the typical Algerian or Tunisian with coffee-colored tint and slender hands, and there are several coal-black negroes from Africa and almond-eyed Orientals from Indo-China. The Chinese cabman has been driving his taxicab there for two years. He was born in Peking, and is looking forward to the day when under the enlightened rule of the young Chinese Republic he may start a motor garage in his native city.

MAY INTERVENE IN CASE OF KID M'COY

United States Government Investigator Arrest of American Boxer in Ostend, Belgium.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
London, Aug. 15.—It is thought in some quarters the United States government may intervene in the case of "Kid" McCoy (Norman Selby), the American boxer, who was arrested July 26, on a provisional extradition warrant on a charge of larceny alleged to have been committed at Ostend, Belgium. J. L. Grossby, third secretary of the United States embassy, was present at Bow street police court today when McCoy was again brought up. The magistrate remanded the accused for another week at the request of the Belgian authorities. Friends of the American boxer assert that the Belgian authorities, finding themselves involved in an inexcusable blunder, are endeavoring to negotiate the unconditional release of McCoy.

SAME OLD SAM KEEPS ON HITTING

Sam Crawford.

Sam Crawford, famed for his hitting, keeps right on giving cheer to Detroiters when they see him coming to bat. It's worth a lot to ball teams to have men like him on the list. Notice the air of confidence with which he clasps the bat.

Dr. C. H. Ellsworth, Dentist, 16 Baldwin St., Rochester, N. Y., says: Foley Kidney Pills gave him immediate relief and strengthened him wonderfully. "For some time past I have been bothered with weak kidneys and bladder trouble. Irregular action, pain and dizzy spells all troubled me. Foley Kidney Pills gave me immediate relief and strengthened me wonderfully. I am pleased to recommend their use." Foley Kidney Pills are specially prepared for kidney and bladder ailments, and are always effective for rheumatism, backache, weak back and lumbago. Badger Drug Co.

At The Theatre

"THE SHEPHERD OF THE HILLS."
There is a character in "The Shepherd of the Hills," the dramatization of Harold Bell Wright's novel, which comes to the Myers Theatre Sunday, Aug. 25th, matinee and evening, called "Preaching Bill." Despite the roughness of his character, he has a brand of philosophy that in its way is quite equal to that of "David Harum." Some of his sayings are: "Some fellows can do mighty big things in a darned little way." "Every hound has his strong points, but some has more of 'em."

"There is a bond of fellowship in sorrow that knows no conventionalities." "God 'imighty fixed it somehow so th' birds and varmint don't make no mistake, but left it plumb easy for men and women to make durned fools of themselves." "Hit's good for a feller t' be down in the back once in a while, if hit wasn't for that we'd go plumb over backwards." "In his face was the look of one who had done fought his fight to the finish and war too dead beat t' even be glad it war over."

Dinner Stories

Little Winifred had been very keenly interested in gardening work all the Spring. What specially appealed to her had been the sowing of seed and then the coming of the little plants.

One day mother took her to see a neighbor's baby who was just ten months old. "Baby show the little girl his toothies," cooed the fond mother, as she opened the little rosy mouth. "O-o-o-h, mummy," squealed Winifred gleefully, as she saw the two little teeth just peeping through the gums. "Look, his teeth are just coming up!"

Not even the author of the "Club of Strange Trades" conceived of an odder means of livelihood than that of Dr. Martin Potter, says the New York correspondent of the Cincinnati Times Star. He runs an animal pawnshop. If you have a lion that you don't need as badly as you need the money, or want to soak a trained bear for a few weeks, or put up an elephant until you hear from home, go around to Dr. Potter. He'll loan you the money against your livestock and he will not charge you any interest. But you'll have to pay the board of your pledge. "I just drifted into the business," said Dr. Potter. "I started out to furnish trained animals to shows. I've rented everything to showmen from a troop of thoroughbred horses to a red-eyed Numidian lion. By and by I found that I had to lend money now and then to my patrons and take their stock in pledge. It was a necessity of the business, but now I like it." His stables contain elephants and camels—if you're a regular showman you'll say cam-u-el—and monkeys and a dozen sorts of dogs and all varieties of the cat tribe and the deuce knows what. And his proudest boast is that he was never stuck but once. "Fellow borrowed $20 from me on a trick dog," said he. "Finest dog I ever saw. I'd have loaned $100 on him as easy. But I wasn't shown all that dog's tricks by his owner. That night I found that he had been trained to unlatch the door and get out—and his owner had not trained him to come back."

THE INCOME TAX.

The thing until primary day is becoming shorter and shorter but still there is lots of opportunity to look into the claims of the various candidates and make your selection carefully. The protests against the income tax are becoming more and more insistent and the following claims made that the tax is a tax on the producer, which means the farmer as well as the manufacturer, appears to be to be with good foundation.

A tariff is a tax on the consumer. A state income tax is a tax on the producer.

If a tax on the consumer is an abomination, what shall we say of a tax on the producer?

Who are the producers? In numbers, farmers are greatest producers. Then comes the working men, the business men, the manufacturers. Even the professions may well come under this head.

If a state income tax is a tax on the producer then it falls heavily on the farmer and the working man.

We used to be told that the foreigner paid the tariff tax. We know better now. The importer placed the tariff tax on the cost of the goods and passed it on to the consumer.

With a state income tax, the tax can be placed on the goods occasionally in purely local transactions, but ninety per cent of the products of Wisconsin becomes interstate commerce before reaching the consumer. The tax on this portion of the products, therefore, cannot be added to the cost for the reason that the price is governed by the supply in other states where a state income tax is not levied.

The tendency of wages under a system of taxing the consumer is upwards. The tendency of wages under a system of taxing the producer must necessarily be downward.

HILLES ENCOURAGED.

Charles D. Hilles, former secretary to President Taft, now head of the national republican campaign committee, is much encouraged. He firmly believes that President Taft will receive 384 electoral votes. Wilson but 114, and 24 listed as doubtful.

Mr. Hilles is in Chicago where he has opened headquarters and he bases his claims on what he terms "careful analysis of the situation." Wisconsin is placed in the Taft column, as was to be expected—New York, Pennsylvania, Illinois, Indiana, Ohio, the Dakotas, Minnesota, Colorado, Idaho, Nevada and many others of the states claimed by Wilson or the Roosevelt backers. Even Oregon is included in Hilles' list with Michigan, Missouri, Kentucky and Tennessee as certain.

To Wilson he gives the old-time solid south and places Arizona, California, Oklahoma and Nebraska as doubtful. True, Mr. Hilles is optimistic in the extreme, but there is no reason to believe he is too optimistic. He is in a position to view the situation from the stand of certain promises and conditions which the general public does not understand. To look at conditions, local conditions, that will affect the state tickets and hence the national affairs. It has always been true that just after the democratic national convention there has been a wave all over the country of self-satisfaction on the part of their leaders that they would win, but by the time the November election day comes around it has turned into a republican landslide that can never be accounted for except that the people, the real voters, have confidence in the republican party.

Take Wisconsin for instance. There has been much said and done in the state with a view of throwing it into the doubtful column, but the fact remains it is loyal republican and despite the insistence of the democrats it will go for Wilson, of the Roosevelt men that they will have a vote that will count, it will pile up the usual republican majority.

THE RACES.

After years of inactivity Janesville has jumped into prominence as a race center again in one day. The success of the present meet at the Park association track is assured and this means that there will be more races next year and in years to come providing the management which has worked so hard to make the present affair a success, are given the support they should have by the citizens generally. The business men of Janesville are doing their part in encouraging the affair by declaring this afternoon a half holiday and doubtless, weather permitting, the gathering today and tomorrow will do much towards bringing up the attendance to the total where it will be safe to go ahead and plan for a second meet next year. The old June race meets in Janesville were eagerly looked forward to by the horsemen and there is no reason that the August meet can not be just as successful.

Relaying the pavement on east Milwaukee street the Wisconsin Telephone company is making good the dangerous and unsightly conditions that have existed ever since they laid their conduit down some two years ago. While this work is being done why would it not be a good thing to have the other bad spots in the street caused by sinking of the pavement, due to tearing up the brick to repair water mains and gas mains and making plumbing repairs fixed in good shape?

New York is certainly reaching out for the men "higher up" in its probe. Fear of personal violence may cause some of the present prisoners to become reluctant witnesses against the men who are responsible for the present conditions, but if the district attorney of New York has the nerve and back bone he will not stop no matter who is implicated.

SAVED BY LOW SPEED.

Even the owners of the steamer Corsican, the latest Atlantic liner to strike an iceberg would admit that the Titanic was a better and safer as well as more powerful ship. The Titanic was newer and represented more perfectly the latest advanced ideas in marine architecture.

But the Titanic lies at the bottom of the ocean with the remains of the hundreds who perished when that giant vessel went down, while the Corsican is afloat and her passengers and crew are uninjured and safe. There is no tragedy, only a small money loss.

Speed made the difference. The Titanic struck going at a great pace, the Corsican while moving very slowly. The larger and more powerful ship was rushed through ice fields on the principle that the faster they were left behind the sooner the risk would be over—and also on the supposition that nothing very serious could happen to so tremendous a vessel. The Corsican, less mighty and less arrogant and with the fearful lesson of the Titanic in mind, checked down to a low speed and moved as carefully as possible.

There lies the difference between reasonable caution and recklessness. It is the other side of the object lesson furnished by the fate of the great ship which proved that no vessel could rush upon an iceberg without inviting destruction and risking a terrible loss of life.

Lieutenant Becker of the New York police, made the mistake of not getting into the Mexican revolutionist movement. Then he could have ordered people brought out in squads to be shot at sunrise.

Mayor Gaynor borrowed a chew of tobacco from a street laborer. But what would he do if a street laborer tried to borrow one from him?

"Eat apples and be happy," says an orchardist. But what the small boy wants to know is how it can be done at this time of the year.

Misplaced Reticence.
"It was a great mistake," sighed the man who was sued for breach of promise. "What do you mean?" "I used a non de plume in my literary work instead of disguising my identity in my love letters."

ON THE SPUR OF THE MOMENT

By ROY K. MOULTON.

Circus is coming. Circus comin', well, by gum. Guess this town is goin' some. Bright and early we'll be there. See 'em unload every car. Then we'll travel to the ground. Take a little look around. Watch them feed the hippopot. What an appetite he's got. See the neck on that giraffe. Long as any old flagstaff. Elephants are comin' now. Watch out for the sacred cow. Might step on you, smash you flat. Gosh all fishhooks, look at that—See that elephant eat hay. Bale, each time, he puts away. Hear that durn old lion roar. Bein' locked up makes him sore. Tigers and the wildcats, too. And the jumpin' kangaroo. They don't quite enjoy this show like us fellows do, you know.

Now for some red lemonade. Almost time for that parade. There they go. Hear that brass band. Ain't them jockey fellows grand? And the women, my, how bold. I should think they'd catch cold. Here's the camels, they can go Week without a drink, you know. Sunday closin' they don't mind. But as anyone can find. Here's the lynx, see 'em grin; Guess the whiskers on my chin. Makes 'em giggle. Gosh, look there! See that durn old polar bear. Here's the old calliope. Guess us fellows better hope. Back to the circus grounds. Where we're goin' to make the rounds.

Here's the side show. Well, by Gee, Guess there'll be no show for me. Some durn sucker's gone and took My gold watch and pocketbook.

What Drives Clerks Crazy.
"I want to buy a shirt for my husband. I don't know what size the neckband is, but he wears a six-and-one-eighth hat."

"My wife wants me to get her some ribbon to trim a dress. What shade do you think she would like?"
"My wife has just got back from the east and doesn't like the overcoat I bought her six months ago. Will you take it back?"

"Huh, they ain't wearin' them hats in New York now. You don't see 'em in any of Bud Fisher's cartoons." "What kind of necktie would my husband like for his birthday?"
"Are those $1.29 cuff links solid gold? If not, I don't want them."

With the creek straightened out this would save about sixteen miles. The only thing that would conflict with the success of this movement would be a question of what to do with the extra water. For the present it could be stored away in ponds and cisterns.

MAKE FOLKS WEAR CLOTHES AT ATLANTIC CITY; BIG HOWL IS RAISED

The way some bathers like to dress and the way others would have them. The "proper" suit is in the very latest style approved by fashion society.

There is a great row on at Atlantic City. Policemen have been instructed by the mayor, on complaint of committees, to see that bathers wear raincoats, blankets or something of the kind as they go to the sands. If they don't bring costumes at hotels and walk to the beach and to get that the bathing costumes are more plentiful than in the past. A complete try-out is to be given the idea of the prudes.

Heart to Heart Talks.

By EDWIN A. NYE.

TO A YOUNG MAN.
I should like you to read this story. It may brace you up.
It is told by the Rev. C. H. Parkhurst, and I have condensed the tale into the 500 word limit of this talk.
The boy was born in the West Indies of mixed Indian, negro and Caucasian parentage. As a child he lived in a hut with thatched roof, whose front door was a piece of sacking. Plantain, coarse cassava bread and salt fish were the daily fare.
At school the boy often went into the woods to eat his lunch, ashamed of his scanty bit.

But—
Somehow—it seems almost a miracle—the boy got the idea that he would be a physician. He determined to go to New York city and study medicine.

Hiding as a stowaway in the hold of a vessel, he turned up at Panama, where he was jailed as a vagrant.

Which was inauspicious.
On his release from the jail he secured a job on a barge, washing clothes for his board. He transferred from the barge to a Pacific liner, which took him to San Francisco. Here he went aboard a tramp steamer, supposing it would take him to New York.

Instead, it carried him around the world and back to Panama.

He had money enough to pay his fare to Colon and there found a chance to work his passage to New York, where he arrived with 11 cents in his pocket.

Eleven cents—plus grit!
After many hardships he went to work at $3 per week, increased in a few months to $4. He attended night school, where, at the close of the term, he won a prize, which made friends for him.

Working his way, assisted by his friends, he graduated at a preparatory school and entered a medical college. He gradually won his way up from student to laboratory assistant and soon will be an M. D.

Young man, do you believe you have no chance to get on in the world? You must concede you have a better chance than this boy.

You can do what he did—use the best that is in you. The persistence and self denial of the West Indian youth will lift any young man to comfort and influence.

Show yourself worthy and you will also find friends. But—
While friends may boost you, remember—you must do your own climbing.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

To Seal Envelopes.
Persons using bond paper envelopes in their correspondence, are often annoyed when these envelopes fail to seal properly. This is not due to a poor quality of gum on the envelope, but to the non-absorbent properties of the high-grade paper, and may be overcome by thoroughly moistening the flap on the outside before moistening
the gum. This will insure perfect sealing and is worth trying.

Wins Local Race.

The largest crowd that has attended
any affair of any kind at the Janesville driving park in recent years assembled at the race course this afternoon for the events scheduled on the second day's program of the big light harness meet.

The grand stand was filled long before the first heat in the 2:30 pace was started. Automobiles which had brought race track enthusiasts from all over the country here for the races today, lined the track, outside and within the rail of the half mile course.

The majority of the retail stores in the city were closed to give the employees an opportunity to attend the meeting and attracted by the unprecedented success of yesterday's races
most of them were eager to attend.

The entries in the races this afternoon were as follows:

well, S. G., R. F. Livingston, Platteville. Fifth White Hope, D. J. Fenelon, Ripon, Wis.

Yesterday's races demonstrate two things, that fast horses and good ones are to be found on the Janesville track and that fast time can be made over the track itself. Horsemen, drivers and spectators were delighted with the spectacular finishes in several of the heats, and when the time of 2:10 1/4, made by Bobby K. in the second heat of the 2:18 pace was announced the grand stand went wild with enthusiasm.

It was an ideal day for racing and both the half mile and the mile tracks were in excellent shape. Starter Fisher got the horses away with as little delay as possible and his handling of the field in the two year race, green horses that were hard to handle, was most admirable.

One of the interested spectators was Joseph I. Markey, editor of the Horse Review of Pittsburgh, Mr. Markey traveled all the way from the Pennsylvania city to be present at the revival of racing in Janesville and stated he felt well repaid for his efforts in the showing made yesterday.

Mr. Markey remembers Janesville
when it held yearly meets, he knows all the old timers and spent several hours visiting with Henry McKinney and talking over old times. Others of the old drivers and owners who were here also came in for their share of attention and it was quite a reunion of former men who made Janesville famous.

Local interest centered in the race for Janesville horses which was won by Major K, owned by Kuhlrow with Dexter S, owned and driven by Ed Schmidley second, Red Babe, owned by Albert Mahoney went third all through the five trying heats and Rexetta owned by Dave Griffin and driven by Frank Griffin took fourth place with Dexter Little, owned by John C. Nichols and driven by J. W.
Briggs fifth.

In the two year old trotting class
Baron Bates carried off the honors, owned by H. T. Chandler of Monroe, with Angus Axworthy, Charles A. Putnam's speedy colt, second, nosing out Spriggen, owned by McKenzie of Winnipeg, for which $7000 was paid
a few weeks ago, third.

Every heat was a race in every sense of the word and it was no slow
bunch of nags that faced the starter.
The half mile and mile track
were fast and should prove much better today with the workout yesterday. Secretary Putnam of the association kept his drags going between heats and his general supervision of the grounds has been most excellent.

The following is the summary of yesterday's results:

2:18 Pace.
Bobby K. 2 1 1 1
Helle Charlton 3 6 2 2
Marie W. 1 2 6 5
Roxie Leland 5 3 3 4
Silver City Boy, Miss Priscilla, Vermont, Airship and Little Man also started.
Time—2:12 1/4, 2:10 1/4, 2:13, 2:13 1/4, 2:35 Trot.

MAY PUT ON NEW TRAIN TO MILWAUKEE

Rumored That St. Paul Road Will Put on New Milk Train to Handle
Traffic Carried by Early Morning Passenger Train.

That the Chicago, Milwaukee & St.
Paul railroad may establish better service between this city and Milwaukee, especially with regard to making better time over the route from Janesville to Milwaukee, is the substance of a report current today.
It is reported that the company is planning to establish a new milk
train between Whitewater and Milwaukee solely for the purpose of picking up milk along the way. If this is done the train leaving here at 7:20 a.
m. will be enabled to make better time than at present, about three hours and a half being required for the trip under present conditions, as long stops are made at all the stations along the way. At Bethesda, it is said, the average stop is twenty minutes for the train to load the milk
there and at other milk stations correspondingly long stops are made.
Petitions asking for better service have been forwarded to the office of the railroad company, and also to the state railroad commission. A member of the rate commission recently made a trip on the train and secured a record of the number of stops made and the time spent at each station.
As a result of this, it is thought the rate commission will order the railroad to arrange in some way to give better service over the line.

PATRICK W. SMITH IS SUDDENLY CALLED

Well Known Resident of City Died
Today At Home On Linn Street.

Leaves Wife And Children.
Janesville citizens were shocked
today to learn of the sudden death of Patrick W. Smith at his home, 403
Linn street. Mr. Smith was born in Ireland in 1848 and emigrated to the United States sixty years ago. He lived for some time in New York and later came west to Janesville where he has since made his home. He leaves to mourn his loss, a widow,
three daughters, Catherine, Agnes,
and Mrs. E. B. Daly of Ft. Dodge, Iowa, and three sons, William, Richard, and Frank. Notice of the funeral will be announced later.

Culpable Bank Officials Punished.
The tribunal at Bulach, near Zurich,
Switzerland, after a three days' trial
of the chief officials of the local savings bank, which failed for the huge sum of $1,400,000 in 1910, involving in rule thousands of the Swiss poorer classes, has given its verdict. Three directors were acquitted, four were sentenced to imprisonment for terms varying from 15 days to three months,
while the cashier, Albrecht, received one year's penal servitude. From the point of view of British justice the sentences are very lenient, but the principal culprit, Muller, who lost all the money and shot himself soon after his arrest, was the chief manager, and the directors, who had too much faith in him, also lost heavily. Since 1910 several directors of this bank have died and a number of ruined creditors have taken their lives.

She Was There.

Liz and Mary were proceeding to morning school, and of course they couldn't resist the attraction of gazing into shop windows on their way.
Suddenly the former paused at the window of the local photographer and gazed her eyes on a certain picture. It was the annual procession of school children through the village. "Mary!" she shrieked excitedly.
"Come here!" "What's the matter, Liz?" asked the other. "You see the
there? An' you see the pair o' boots 'hind Annie?" "Yes." "Well, that's me!"—Milwaukee News.

AUTOMOBILE CRASH; ONE BADLY DAMAGED

Machines of George Rodgers and Herman Buggs Meet Head On at Corner Racine and South
Main.

Serious damage to the automobile
of Herman Buggs, and lesser damage to that of George Rodgers resulted when the two machines collided head-on at the corner of South Main and Racine streets at about nine o'clock last evening. Just previous to the accident both machines were going south on Main street, the Buggs car following that of Mr. Rodgers. When Racine street was reached Mr. Buggs turned east to do down Racine. Mr.
Rodgers at the same time swung his car completely around, intending to go north on Main street. In turning the Rodgers machine struck the Buggs car, smashing the radiator, breaking the springs and axle and also one of the lamps. The breaking of the steering gear and one lamp smashed was the only damage sustained by the Rodgers machine.

The occupants of both automobiles were unhurt. Three women, in addition to Mr. Buggs, occupied the Buggs machine, and Mr. Rodgers was alone in his car. The Buggs machine was left on Racine street until morning, but that of Mr. Rodgers was brought to the garage under its own power.

Telephone users may save in a day
the additional cost of the automatic telephone. See it at Putnam's Store.
Open evenings.

POLITICAL EQUALITY
DAY AT CHAUTAUQUA

Evansville Suffragists Boost Cause
With Special Program on Tuesday—Other News.
(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)

Evansville, Aug. 15.—The Political Equality League have had their tent up in the park near the chautauqua tent for the past week and have distributed equal suffrage literature, votes for women pennants and flyers during the time of the chautauqua. Tuesday was called Equal Suffrage day at the chautauqua and the Political Equality League gave a picnic dinner to the league and their friends. They also gave a short program in the chautauqua tent which they decorated with golden rod and golden glow, the league colors, and hung the big "Votes for Women" banner across the back of the stage. The speakers who gave short addresses, were: Professor Decon of Eugene, Oregon; Rev. Chas. Coon, and Rev. Meyers. Miss June Baker sang a solo, "Equality," and Miss Mae Holmes gave a reading, "How Mania won the vote." The subject of Equal Suffrage was still further discussed by Charles H. Paine, M. P. the speaker for the afternoon on the chautauqua program, in his civics lecture. He explained to the audience how equal suffrage worked out in New Zealand, where he had an opportunity to see it tested. The league is still adding to its membership, which now numbers seventy.

The Evening Chit-Chat

WHAT TO WEAR MORNINGS.

"SOME ladies think they may, under the privileges of the deshabille be loose and negligent of their dress in the morning. But be you, from the moment you rise till the moment you go to bed, as cleanly and properly dressed as at the hours of dinner or tea. A lady who has been seen as a sloven in the morning will never efface the impression she has made with the dress and piquancy she afterwards involve herself in."—Thomas Jefferson in a letter to his daughter.

A young girl was sorting out her clothes for the week's washing. She held up a distinctly soiled petticoat for inspection, hesitated over it a moment, and then put it back in the wardrobe. "That's too soiled to wear afterwards any more," she decided, "but I guess I can wear it with my morning dresses another week." Don't you think that's rather a queer point of view?

When the morning is the freshest, sweetest time in all the day, why should anything too soiled to be worn at the tag end of the day be considered suitable to wear then? And yet you'll admit that it is a very common habit among women to exact a few days of wear in the kitchen from the afternoon toggery which is too soiled to appear again in the living room before it has been washed.

And just as "tacky" as this habit of wearing half soiled things in the morning is that of finishing up half this queer trick. She was a wholesome looking girl who had a perfect picture going about her housework in a fresh percale or gingham, but in a faded blue crepe, torn and spotted and trimmed with disgustingly soiled lace she was anything but a picture—except perhaps an illustration of an article on the wrong way to do it.

To my mind percale and gingham and such cloths belong to the morning just as naturally and inextricably as silks and laces belong to the evening. They are of the genus of morning, fresh and crisp and dainty; like morning light and morning flowers and morning bird songs.

It seems to me that no matter how wealthy one might be, one could not buy anything more beautiful for the morning than a fresh and simple cotton dress. At a house party I once attended one of the wealthier guests used to appear at breakfast in a rich negligee of pale blue silk and lace. It probably cost ten times as much as the little pink gingham dress of her next neighbor, but to my mind it was not half so beautiful because not half so appropriate to the genus of the morning.

To dress simply and suitably in the morning ought to be just as much a part of every nice girl's sartorial ambition as to dress richly and fashionably in the afternoon and evening.

And Thomas Jefferson's advice is quite as good today as the day he gave it.

A WOMAN'S OBSERVATIONS

Edna K. Woolley

"What a beautiful lawn you have," declared the visitor, looking out upon the smooth, green expanse standing down to the street.

"That lawn," sighed the mistress of the house, "is the bane of my life. When we moved here we thought what a delight it would be to have such a nice wide lawn," she explained. "But since the grass began to grow this spring it's been a herculean struggle to keep it cut. First, my husband tried to cut it. But he got tired of the job and told me to hire somebody—said his time and energy were worth more than a smooth lawn if he had to do it himself.

"Well, I hunted high and low for a man willing to cut that lawn. Out here in the suburbs, nobody wants to do any work for you, you know. You're supposed to do it yourself, you beg and plead hard enough, somebody will 'oblige' you if you'll pay two or three times as much as any one would ask in the city.

"Finally, when the grass looked like a young forest, I found a fellow who said he'd cut the lawn at the

ARTIFICIAL FEEDING I.

At first it was thought best to take up the matter of artificial feeding and the preparation of artificial food in detail, but to do so would require several articles the size of these, and it would also be necessary to give several formulas, which to most people are confusing.

The information given in this article is simple and concise and can be carried out by anyone. It will be found sufficient for use in all ordinary cases, and when a case ceases to be ordinary, the services of a competent physician are required.

The data and quotations given in this article were taken from a booklet, "The Care of the Baby," which is issued by the Illinois State Board of Health. This booklet will be sent free by the Board to anyone living in Illinois.

As stated in another article, cow's milk properly modified, is the best substitute for mother's milk. If any of the proprietary infants' foods are used they should not be used alone, but properly mixed with cow's milk.

Cow's milk must be diluted on account of its richness in curds. When diluted, however, it contains too little fat and sugar. Hence, after dilution, we must add cream and sugar to the milk. This process imitates the milk of the mother as nearly as can be done.

Articles required for mixing milk and artificial feeding are: 1 Chapin Cream dipper; 1 8-ounce glass graduated; 1 glass funnel; a bottle of lime water and a supply of absolutely pure water; several nursing bottles which can be easily cleaned and a few black rubber nipples and two or three bottle brushes for washing out the bottles.

"The food should be mixed in the morning for the entire day. It should then be placed in the nursing bottles enough for a feed in each bottle, or should be put in a covered glass jar and placed on ice."

"During the first four weeks the infant is to be fed approximately every two hours and will take about two ounces of each feeding. For a new born baby or one a month old, take one ounce of fresh milk; three ounces of water; one ounce of fresh cream and two level teaspoonsful of milk sugar. This makes about five ounces. For twenty ounces use four times as much of each ingredient. This closely resembles mother's milk."

"For older babies take two ounces of fresh milk; 2 ounces water; 1 ounce of fresh cream; two level teaspoonsful of milk sugar and a teaspoonful of lime water. Larger quantities may be made by increasing the amounts of each ingredient in proper proportion. More milk and less water will be used as the infant increases in age."

If cream disagrees with the infant, its use should be stopped temporarily. The following is a good substitute for mother's milk suitable for an infant of three months or less: Pure milk, cup full; water, two cups full; sugar of milk, one heaping tablespoon full; lime water, one tablespoon full.

The subject of "Artificial Feeding" will be concluded in the next article.

rate of 15 cents an hour.

"He started the next morning at 7 o'clock. Every other hour he took off and between times he rested. When I meekly suggested that I was paying him 15 cents an hour for his time he cast a reproachful glance at me and ran the lawn mower over a few inches of grass to show me how hard he was working.

"Well, that fellow 'stung' me for nine hours' work. I paid him $1.35, and remarked that he needn't come back. The old residents out here held up their hands in horror when I told them about it. 'Anybody ought to be glad to do that job for 50 cents,' they told me.

"Next, a boy came along and asked to cut the grass for 60 cents. He cut one side of the lawn and then said he'd have to come back next day to finish. He told me some sad story about a widowed mother and seven children or something, and I felt so sorry that I gave him the 60 cents in advance. He never came back.

"And what gets me," again sighed the mistress of the house, "is that I'm continually contributing to charities to help along the poor, but when I want to pay anybody to do some work for me, nobody wants to work. 'It takes about an hour and a half for a man to cut that lawn. At the rate of 50 cents for the job, and furnishing the tools, it seems to me it isn't bad pay. Yet I have to beg to have it done.'

"There are plenty of able-bodied boys around here who, one would think, would like to earn some honest money doing such work. But they all think themselves too aristocratic to do any kind of manual labor. They'd rather hold up Father or Mother for their needed funds. And they are aided and abetted in this by their doting parents."

"Have you still got the same girl working for you?" queried the visitor. "I have not," mournfully returned the suburbanite. "That's another tale of woe I'll have to tell you."

CANNING HINTS.

It may be well to remember that fruit picked after a heavy rain, especially berries like raspberries, will have lost much of their flavor.

Currants picked after a heavy rain are not as good for jelly making as those picked after drying off.

When canning pineapple try this method: Slice the fruit or shred it in the form desired, and cook it until tender in clear water. Then use the water with sugar to make a heavy syrup to pour over the pineapple in the cans. Seal and put away for winter.

A method of canning which is so good that every busy housewife should at least try it, is this: Put the fruit to be canned in the jars, have a thick, rich syrup of sugar and water with perhaps some of the inferior or crushed berries, though none of them should be spoiled. Pour this boiling hot syrup over the fruit in the jars and submerge them in a boiler of boiling water, so that four inches of water covers the tops of the cans. They should be tightly sealed. Cover the boiler with an old carpet or rug and let stand for twenty-four hours, then remove, see that the tops are screwed tight, and put away for the winter.

Currants for jelly making should not be too ripe as the pectin is changed to sugar and the jelly will not set. The last few days of June and the first days of July are considered the best time for currant jelly making.

Currants and raspberries in equal parts make a delicious jelly, the currants supplying the pectin and the raspberry the flavor.

Jelly should be drained slowly from a jelly bag hung and allowed to drip. If the juice is squeezed out the jelly will be thick and leathery in appearance.

To make a jelly bag, fold two opposite corners of a piece of cotton or wool flannel three-fourths of a yard long. Sew up in the form of a cornucopia, with a rounding end.

John Puts Down the Kitchen Linoleum

"JOHN, dear," said Dolly at the dinner table. "The linoleum for the kitchen came today. I know it's awful to ask you, but won't you put it down for me tonight?"

"John groaned. 'Why that's an all night job. Get a man in tomorrow to put it down.'

"I can't," replied Dolly. "There isn't any man to get as you know. And besides, I've got a lot of other things to do tomorrow."

"Well, there's no grand rush about getting it down. Send to the store and let them send a man out as soon as they can."

"No, it must go down tonight," said Dolly decisively. "I suppose it doesn't matter if I half kill myself," said John. "Just so your housekeeping isn't put out any."

"It isn't that at all, dear. But it just must go down tonight. 'It'll be hotter than blazes in that kitchen.'

"Oh, no. We'll open all the doors and windows."

"And linoleum is more stubborn than a rhinoceros."

"It's just about the right size, and you won't have much trouble," cheered on Dolly.

"I can't see."

"Dear, just don't growl, but do it."

So after dinner, John removed his coat and collar and began. In corners where the light was dim, Dolly obligingly held a lantern. She cheerily put saucers of tacks handy and did all she could to assist her liege lord. But with all her efforts, the work progressed slowly and John peeped freely.

"I never saw anything so stiff in my life," expostulated John, as he tried to get a refractory piece around a pipe. "What you want such a stuff for on the floor I don't see. If you'd get out of my way, I might get something done."

Just then he missed the tack and struck his thumb. The flow of language that ensued caused Dolly to fly precipitately for the parlor. "She thought it her duty to chide John for such language, but she didn't think it a wise proceeding just then. So the only thing to do was to get out of hearing."

When she thought the situation had calmed down a bit, she came back. "If you just wouldn't get worked up, dear, it would go easier."

"Suppose you try it and see if you won't get worked up. I'll be here all night, I'm not half done. Confound that saucer. What have you got, saucers set all around me for? I'm no cat."

Meekly Dolly removed the offending saucer. Then she thought it best once more to beat a retreat.

After awhile she tiptoed out and peeped through the door. John, his face the color of a beet, was tugging at a piece of unyielding linoleum. Bits of the saucer of tacks were strewn about. The lantern was overturned and a stream of oil trickled over the floor.

"I guess I had better go to bed," said Dolly to herself. "How I wish I could tell him his club is bringing a surprise party here tomorrow night. Poor dear! He'd understand then, why that linoleum must go down tonight. Well anyway, he'll know tomorrow."

And then Dolly stole quietly upstairs, and John, between pauses of working, as he sat wearily and hot on the floor, wondered what in the name of heaven had come over Dolly that she was so dead set on having that linoleum down that night. "The very hottest night of the summer," he said to himself. "I never knew her to be so unreasonable."

And in the wee small hours of the morning he crawled upstairs and laid his aching body upon the bed and slept the sleep of the exhausted until the breakfast bell rang.

Heart and Home Problems

MRS. ELIZABETH THOMPSON

Dear Mrs. Thompson—Can you tell me anything good to remove freckles?

I am a girl of nineteen years old, fairly good looking and the boys tease me by calling me "Rusty" and "Mildew."

Take the teasing good-naturedly. You love you just the same.

Buttermilk is good to remove freckles. Lemon juice is good also, if your skin can stand it. For obstinate freckles this may be used: 3 oz. lactic acid, 4 oz. glycerin, 1 oz. rose-water. Mix and apply with a camel's hair brush. If the skin grows irritated or sore, omit treatment for a couple of days, and do not use it at all if you can make the buttermilk serve. Anyway, a few freckles are beauty spots.

Dear Mrs. Thompson—Is a son who is married and has a child compelled to take his mother and father to live with him when they spend their money for pleasure trips? We can hardly make both ends meet now.

JOHN.

You are not compelled to have your parents live with you. If they need support and you cannot take care of them, take the matter before the proper county authorities.

Dear Mrs. Thompson—Is it proper for a doctor to address a patient as "Dear Friend" when he announced he has returned from his vacation. He has treated me only twice. He asked to phone for an appointment to do some more work for me. He is a widower. I am married. He is inclined to be a flirt. How should I address him when I write?

MRS. A. S.

The doctor probably wrote "Dear Friend" to all of his patients when he announced his return. Reply by saying "Dear Doctor." If you have doubts of him take your husband with you when you go for the next treatment.

Dear Mrs. Thompson—I am a young man nineteen years old. I met a girl on one of the excursions. She was very nice and was the one that started it. She seems to like me and I like her. I wish you would tell me how to win her love. This is the first time I fell in love and I would like to know what to do. E. F. G.

Do you know if she is a good, respectable girl? Do you know what kind of friends she has? Is she older than you?

If you are quite satisfied that she is all right, tell her you would like to call on her at her home and meet her people. Find out what she likes in the way of entertainment and try to take her out once in a while. Buy her a box of good candy as often as you can afford it. Be courteous, sweet-tempered and considerate of her in everything. Just be good friends with her, and find out whether you're really in love. You probably are not.

Dear Mrs. Thompson—(1) What can I do for pimples on my back? (2) What is a good tonic for hair which has never been cut. (3) What is an exercise for large hips?

A READER.

(1) Absolute cleanliness inside and out, drinking plenty of pure water, and a diet leaving out rich gravies, pastries and fried stuff, will in time get rid of them.

(2) Lie extended on the floor, supporting the body with one hand, the other hand placed on the hip. Hold this position and raise the body gradually from the floor until the whole weight is supported by the hand and feet. Try first on one side, then on the other. It's easy to get up to the knees, but difficult, at first, to get up the full extent.

Dear Mrs. Thompson—I have a raincoat that has black greasy spots on it. How can I clean it? Thanking you.

MAE H.

I know of nothing but soap and water, (warm not hot.) If the spots are on the rubber surface, use a soft cloth; if on the cloth surface, use a small brush to scrub off.

HOUSEHOLD TALKS

Henrietta D. Crauch

Housekeepers know little of the spices they use daily but curiously it is a feminine trait, and it is safe to say that of herbs and seeds are open to dining pickling and canning days.

Cinnamon bark, rodents many a dish from insipidity. It is brought from Ceylon and the West Indies. It is cut from the trees in strips and exposed to the sun, when it dries in quills, the smaller of which are inserted into the larger and the whole tied up in bundles. Cassia bark resembles cinnamon but it is not so sweet in flavor and is cheaper. It is frequently sold for cinnamon and ground cinnamon is often adulterated with it.

Cassia luds are from the same tree that yields the bark, in appearance they resemble cloves but their taste is milder, they are highly aromatic and delightful in sweet pickles.

Curry powder is highly seasoned with white pepper; it is used in Eastern and hot countries in great quantities. Its composition varies with different manufacturers. It should contain coriander seed, turmeric, ginger, mustard, pepper and small quantities of cardamom, cayenne, and cummin seed. It is used in chow-chow and all mustard pickles and on curried dishes. If this splendid article is a stranger to your table have curried rice with cold lamb or curried chicken en casserole and see what a good seasoning you have been missing. The curry powder is purchased ready mixed and boxed at any grocer's.

Mustard as old lady named the invention of an old lady named Clements, who lived in Durham several generations ago. She ground the seeds in a hand mill and sold it like a fine flour. She kept her secret and made a little fortune out of it, trotting about from town to town on a little gray mare for orders. From her home it was called Durham mustard and the best quality of English mustard still bears that name.

The story of pepper would fill a volume; at one time it was so scarce that it was used for money. In France taxes, pew rents and church dues were paid in pepper, in spice, or in "specie," the words being equivalent to paying cash and to this day "specie" is the name for the hardest of hard cash.

Ground pepper should be purchased in small quantities and kept well corked as it loses its aroma rapidly. The pepper of the kitchen cabinet is a clinging, clinging vine similar in appearance to the ivy and bearing pretty flowers in spikes followed by red berries. The varieties are named from the localities where they are grown.

Paprika is a very mild pleasant tasting sweet pepper, excellent in salads and spices and meat dishes. Pepper is a stimulant to torpid livers and often supersedes a craving for other stimulants.

"Salt," said the boy, "is the stuff that spoiled the potatoes when you didn't put any in."

Salt, for table use approaches very near perfection, so finely it is ground and so beautifully white is it bleached. Our American salt works are the most perfect in the world, containing the most up-to-date machinery, and producing a really pure article.

The first factory ever started in this country was in 1820 for the extraction of salt by evaporation, from sea water.

As condiments play such an important part in our lives it is interesting to know the flows and why of their making; the proper care of them is also important. Blended with weak vinegar, odorless pepper and unsavory salt often produce an unfavorable dish that would have been perfect with pepper spices and seasonings.

PREDICTS COLD WAVE FOR LAST OF MONTH

Disturbance to Cause Thunder and Hail Storms—Frosts Probable in Northern Latitudes.
(Copyrighted 1912, Foster Weather Bureau.)

Last bulletin gave forecast of disturbance to cross continent Aug. 21 to 25, warm wave 20 to 24, cool wave 23 to 27. Moderate temperatures are expected to prevail during this disturbance. Not much rain where it has been dry the past thirty days. It can not promise a breaking up of the drought that now continues in some sections.

The drought, not general but in some sections, was predicted and located six months ago. It will be remembered that these bulletins located the best crop weather in vicinities of the great lakes. That forecast has proven remarkably correct. For balance of the country a drought was predicted covering large sections. That drought was predicted to begin and damage oats last half of June, but it began two or three weeks later and therefore the oats crop was better than predicted.

Nine months ago I predicted that winter wheat would be seriously damaged by winter weather. This proved correct and a large acreage was plowed up and sown in oats. Spring weather greatly improved winter wheat but the yield will not be as large as now supposed because, in the estimates, the acreage plowed up has not been deducted.

The predicted drought is seriously injuring corn at date of this writing, Aug. 6, but the big speculators will not permit that news to be published. Oats prices are very low and all grain and cotton are low enough. I therefore advise not to sell now, believing you will get better prices by waiting.

These bulletins can not tell you about the fluctuations in grain and cotton prices because the big speculators can and do run prices above and below normal as much as five cents or over a range of ten cents. They do this with their big money. But these bulletins have been successful in telling producers when not to sell and in telling dealers when to buy for a long pull. I can not hit the high and low points of the markets, but if you will buy and sell as indicated in these bulletins and then hold till the fluctuations are over you will come out ahead. For three years I have proven this statement to be correct.

At this date, Aug. 6, is a good time to buy and hold oats. Oats may go a little lower, but they will bring 40 cents or more before end of January.

Next disturbance will reach Pacific coast about August 24, cross Pacific slope by close of 25, great central valleys 26 to 28, eastern sections about August 29. Warm wave will cross Pacific slope about August 24, great central valleys 26, eastern sections 28. Cool wave will cross Pacific slope about August 27, great central valleys 29, eastern sections 31.

This disturbance will inaugurate thunder storms and in some places hail storms. All weather features will increase in force and violence but the general average of rainfall will not increase and the sectional droughts will continue. Temperatures will average about normal of the season and will not be very high or very low. A great fall in temperatures is expected during the week centering on August 19 and frosts in northern latitudes may be expected.

The flying machines are finding holes in the air and they are surprised at these holes which are causing so many deaths among aviators. Long ago these bulletins suggested that some inventor find a method of detecting large bodies of static electricity in the atmosphere. If we should detect these bodies of electricity in the atmosphere it would aid us in predicting changes of weather.

These bodies of static electricity are caused by planetary influences through electro-magnetism and are the causes of the peculiar actions of birds and animals, of geese and hogs and the human rheumatic pains before the coming of radical weather changes.

These holes in the air have a base on the earth, reach upward to a point they exclude the atmosphere. In them we feel depressed for want of pure air and that condition affects all animal life. A machine that will detect these static, negative, electric bodies will be valuable.

ORFORDVILLE

Orfordville, Aug. 14.—S. Cleveland left Monday for a trip to New York state for some weeks' visit with old friends.

A dancing party at the opera house was given Monday evening to the visiting Ansgard relatives and was a delightful affair.

Tuesday afternoon, at the T. O. Rime home, a surprise on Mrs. Ovin Rime in the nature of a gift shower, was planned and carried out by friends of the family. The guests were members of the Ansgard reunion association still in town and other near neighbors and friends. The perfect day and everyone's unaffected pleasure in the occasion made the affair a complete success.

Gilman Knudson and wife were up from Beloit Tuesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Nels Onsgard and Mr. and Mrs. Oliver Onsgard from Spring Grove, Minn., are here for the week.

Mr. and Mrs. John Greenwood of Beloit were at the party Monday evening.

On Sunday August 18th, services will be held at the Methodist church in the nature of a harvest praise service. There will be special music and appropriate decorations.

On next week Wednesday, the 21st, will be the annual picnic at the Platte mouth church. There will be a picnic dinner, ball games and other sports.

Miss Esther Barnum will attend the teachers' training school in Janesville the coming year.

Theo. A. Clarke of Edgerton, was in town on business, the first of the week.

SIDEWALK SKETCHES.

KINDNESS.

(By Howard L. Rann.)

Kindness is a moral attribute which prevents people from littering up the family hearthstone with navy blue grouchiness and rancid forms of speech.

With some people kindness has become such a habit that they would rather nurse a sick neighbor than hear "Queen Esther" sung by home talent in 10 y different keys.

If it were not for kindness, many a persecuted husband would be going around wearing a furlike look and a set of bright new splints.

Kindness is not expensive to operate, but it costs a good deal to cultivate. It is one of the most cheerful tunes ever written, and is frequently accompanied by gray hairs, a bent back and a weary smile. This is the mother kind of brands kicked out of the running.

Kind folks are sometimes run over by people who wouldn't know the milk of human kindness from apple vinegar. Others will accept kindnesses and six o'clock dinners without even loosening up for the price of a lap supper.

Relatives are always kind when they have been informed of the contents of the last will and testament. This is a very suspicious variety of kindness and can change from almost as fast as a federal office holder can change his politics.

Kindness has done a great work in unpolarizing such inalienable rights as kicking a horse with hob-nailed boots, beating obstreperous pupils into a state of coma with a hard-word ruler, subduing a husband's corps du esprit with the potato masher, and pushing a wife down four flights of stairs in order to prove that man is a superior being.

Few people are kind enough to give them an acute pain, but there is more kindness in use now than ever before.

When a kind man dies people will forget that he ever soaked his depositors, and only remember the time when he beat up a drayman for clubbing his horse. Many a man who knew mighty little about theology has earned a passport to heaven by kindness.

Kindness.

HOAG'S CORNERS

Hoag's Corners, Aug. 14.—Mr. and Mrs. B. Wood spent Sunday at John Weber's of Janesville.

Misses Blanche Rice, Nellie Wilcox, Grace and Josephine Crandall, Eleanor Wilbur and Mrs. G. Rice, spent Thursday afternoon with Mrs. L. Martin.

Miss Laura Hoag is visiting with Mrs. S. Phelps of Janesville.

A number of young folks spent Monday evening at J. Hanlon's in honor of Mrs. Hanlon's sister, Miss Lucy Boite who returned to her home at Eagle River Tuesday. Refreshments were served and a good time was enjoyed by all.

Mr. and Mrs. Gus Wilcox and son (Willie) spent Sunday with their daughter, Mrs. F. Richardson.

Mrs. A. Husker and Miss Irma Rice spent Thursday p. m. at A. Hoag's.

Mrs. B. Coon and Retta called at W. Brown's Monday afternoon.

Mrs. R. Stewart spent a few days last week with her son at Delavan.

Miss Reta Clark is visiting at Milton Junction.

TOURING CAR STICKS FAST IN MUD FOR TWO HOURS

Chicago Demonstrator and Frank Campbell Find Unnavigable Road to North of Stoughton.

To have their automobile sink to the hubs in mud and for two hours resist every attempt to release it was the unpleasant experience of Frank Campbell and his friend left Janesville at 5:30 o'clock and found the roads as far as Stoughton in fairly good condition. When they had gone six miles beyond this city the engine gave some trouble and the roads were bad. At one place the car sank to the hubs in the heavy clay and could not be started. For two hours the men vainly attempted to jack the car out of the hole. Finally Senator McCarthy and party of Nebraska, who are camping at Lake Kegonsa, happened along and rope and tackle released the automobile. No further trouble was encountered and Madison was reached at ten o'clock.

Fads and Fashion

New York, Aug. 15.—The latest importations of fall models from Paris do not indicate that fashion this autumn will follow a certain style or silhouette. There is a remarkable variety in these models, from the straight, narrow frock to the gowns with draped and flowing lines. The chances seem to be that summer history will repeat itself and that in the autumn, too, women will be able to choose from a large variety of styles whatever is most becoming to them without being compelled to adhere to a certain model.

Greys have met with much success among the ultra chic this summer, though gray must always be selected knowingly and with careful deliberation. A mere dash of blue or violet or brown in its tone will make all the difference between the becoming and the unbecoming.

Waistcoats figure in very many of the summer coats and frocks and in many of the advance fall models but frills and large ruff arrangements of lace, tulle or ribbon are made to usurp the function of the waistcoat and fill in prettily the very low cut fronts or open fronts of many modish coats. Separate daisy waistcoats, closed high with plain notched edge or collar are shown in satin, printed cottons, corded silks and piques, and some of these include smart little collar and cravat arrangements, forming really a sleeveless and plain backed blouse for wear inside a coat.

Corded silks are, by the way, even more popular than they were last season, and it seems likely that many of them will be worn among the new autumn materials. Changeable silks of the corded tulle and poplin types and of weight slightly heavier than that of the summer silks are already shown in some of the more exclusive shops and there are some very good looking new things in corded wools.

Corduroys and corded velvets, particularly in the wide grades, are highly rated by the importers and are offered in quality and colorings so beautiful that there would certainly be reason in their popularity. In the soft grays and browns, the dead leaf, taupe and similar subdued tones, these stuffs are especially lovely. The light browns and yellowish tones shading down to the darker shades of ecaille are well to fore on the autumn color lists and there are many lovely violet, dahlia and prune shades. Beautiful brighter violets are also seen and lines of wonderful reds and rose shades.

One of the most effective advance models shown by a New York importer is in micro velvet of a shade that is neither fuchsia nor rose, but a light, clear, lovely red between the two. It is made on simple lines, a bodice slightly surplice in front, showing a V of tulle and lace, and a skirt whose clinging fronts are drawn back over so slightly to show a tiny V of lace petticoat toward the bottom. Bodice fronts and skirt fronts are bordered by corded velvet in blue and reds deeper than that of the velvet and there is a girdle of one of the blues.

Velvet in connection with satin or cloth promises to have a great vogue and other two-material combinations are likely to be much worn, like cloth and satin, cloth or satin with chiffon, rough and smooth cloth, plain and corded or brocade or moire silks. This idea, of course, is not new, but will be developed in new ways and will give an opportunity for complicated skirt draperies in suitable simple and light materials, accompanied by coats of warmer and more easily tailored stuffs.

The separate coat contrasting in color as well as in material has made such a hit this summer that, in all probability, it will be reckoned among the autumn modes too. Its most faddish expression has been the coat of white or light color associated with a lightly draped black satin skirt, but there are plenty of variations upon the mode and it will be easy to work out others in winter materials.

The loose half-length coat which has obtained favor this summer is another mode which is fairly sure of autumn acceptance and indeed many new models of this class are coming in now in materials heavier than those of the summer. For some purposes the full length coat is the practical and comfortable thing, but for walking a shorter coat is certainly more comfortable, and the loose, ample, rough half-length sporting coats of this season are very good looking. Many of these are loosely belted. Half-length bench coats in very rough but soft and white wools are in high favor at the Continental resorts and are also appearing here.

The little coats of the bolero type have made considerable headway this summer and will unquestionably be seen in the fall. They are not universally becoming, but when becoming they have much piquancy and give pleasing variety to the costume. Fantastic little dressy models along this line are shown in silks, but the rather more trim modes in wool and silk

"The Connoisseur"

The man who knows good things, at table finds royal pleasure in a cup of

INSTANT POSTUM

—the new food drink.

This beverage has a flavour that recalls the days of real Java coffee; an aromatic smack that many choose in preference to the caffeine-laden coffee of Brazil.

Instant Postum is regular Postum in concentrated form—nothing added—made in the cup—

No Boiling Required

Stir a level teaspoonful in a cup of hot water—add sugar and cream to taste—a delicious beverage is ready instantly.

Iced Postum—First, dissolve in hot water, then pour into glass or pitcher containing ice. Add lemon and sugar as desired.

Grocers sell Instant Postum in 100-cup tins at 50c. Smaller tins making 50 cups at 30c.

Coffee averages about double that cost.

If your grocer does not have Instant Postum, send his name and a 2-cent stamp, to cover postage, for a 5-cup free sample.

The other was much younger, tall also, and spare to leanness. He wore a gray fedora hat, and against its black, unbecoming tint, his face, its prominent, bony surface nipped by the cold to a raw redness, looked salo and unhealthy. With an air of solicitude he laid his overcoat across a chair, brushing off the snow with a careful hand. Buttoned tight in a black cutaway with the collar turned up about his neck, he had an appearance of being uncomfortably compressed into garments too small for him. His shiny-knuckled, purplish hands, pinching up the shoulders of his coat over the chair back, were in keeping with his general suggestion of a large-boned meagerly covered lankness. The fact that he was smooth-shaven, combined with the unusual length of dark hair that appeared below his hat-brim, lent him a suggestion of something interest-dispelled by the light from a similar lamp on the bureau and the red gleam from the stove, Miss Cannon was revealed in the becoming half-dusk made by these imperfectly-blending illuminations, a pink silk dressing-gown loosely enfolding her, a lightly brushed-in suggestion of fair hair behind her ears and on her shoulders. Her comb was in her hand and Cora realized with an uplifting thrill that she had timed her visit correctly and was about to learn the mysteries of Miss Cannon's coiffure.

"I bring you another lamp," she said affably, setting her offering down on the bureau. "One ain't enough light to dress decently by. I have three," and she sank down on the side of the bed with the air of having established an intimacy, woman to woman, by this act of generous consideration.

"Them gentlemen," she continued, "are along on this hill with you and your pa. The old one's Judge Washburne, of Colusa, a pioneer that used to know Mr. Perley's mother way back in Sacramento in the fifties, and knew your pa real well when he was poor. It's sort of encouraging to think your pa was ever poor."

Rose laughed and turned sidewise, looking at the speaker under the arch of her uplifted arm. There were hairpins in her mouth and an up-whirled end of blond hair protruded in a gleaming scattering of yellow over her forehead. She mumbled a comment on her father's early poverty, her lips showing red against the hairpins nipped between her teeth.

"And the other one," went on Cora, her eyes riveted on the hair-dressing, her subconscious mind making notes of the disposition of every coil, "his name's J. D. Buford. And I'd like you to guess what he is! An actor, a stage player. He's been playing all up the state from Los Angeles and was going down to Sacramento to keep an engagement there. It just tickles me to death to have an actor in the house. I ain't never seen one close to before."

The last hair-pin was adjusted, and Miss Cannon studied the effect with a hand-glass.

"An actor," she commented, running a smoothing palm up the back of her head, "that's just what he looked like, now I think of it. Perhaps he'll act for us. I think it's going to be lots of fun being snowed up at Antelope."

The sound of a voice crying "Cora" here rose from the hallway and that young woman, with a languid deliberation of movement, as of one who obeys a vulgar summons at her own elegant leisure, rose and departed, apologizing for having to go so soon.

A few minutes later, the hour of supper being at hand, Rose followed her. She was descending the stairs when a commotion from below, a sound of voices, loud, argumentative, rising and falling in excited chorus, hurried her steps. The lower hall, lit with lamps and the glow of its stove, heated by a translucent red, was full of men. A current of cold could be felt in the hot atmosphere and fresh snow was melting on the floor. Standing by the stove was a man who had evidently just entered. Ridges of white lay caught in the folds of his garments; a silver hoar was on his beard. He held his hands out to the heat and as Rose reached the foot of the stairs she heard him say:

"Well, I tell you that any man that started to walk up here from Rocky Bar this afternoon must have been plumb crazy. Why, John L. Sullivan couldn't do it in such a storm."

To which the well-bred voice of Willoughby answered:

"But according to the message he started at two and the snow was hardly falling then. He must have got a good way, past the Silver Crescent, when the storm caught him."

A hubbub of voices broke out here, and, seeing her father on the edge of the crowd, Rose went to him and plucked his sleeve, murmuring:

"What's happened? What's going on?"

He took his cigar out of his mouth and turned toward her, speaking low and keeping his eyes on the men by the stove.

"The telegraph operator has just had a message sent from Rocky Bar that a man started from there this afternoon to walk up here. They don't think he could make it and are afraid he's lost somewhere. Perley and some of the boys are going out to look for him."

"What a dreadful thing! In such a storm! Do you think they'll ever find him?"

He shrugged, and replaced his cigar in his mouth.

"Oh, I guess so. If he was strong enough to get on near here they ought to. But it's just what the operator says. The feller must have been plumb crazy to attempt such a thing. Looks as if he were a stranger in the country."

"It's a sort of quiet, respectable way of committing suicide," said the voice of the actor behind them.

Rose looked over her shoulder and saw his thin, large-featured face, no longer nipped and reddened with cold, but wreathed in an obsequious and friendly smile which furrowed it with deep lines. Her father answered him and she turned away, being more interested in the preparations for the search party. As she watched these she could hear the desultory conversation behind her, the actor's comments delivered with an unctuous, elaborate politeness which, contrasted with her father's gruff brevity, made her smile furtively to herself.

Supper was an animated meal that evening. The suddenly tragic interest that had developed drew the little group of guests together with the strands of a common sympathy. The judge and the actor moved their seats to the Cannons' table. Cora was sent to request the doctor—a young man fresh from his graduation in San Francisco who took his meals at the bachelor's table—to join them and add the weight of medical opinion to their surmises as to the traveler's chances of survival. These, the doctor thought, depended as much upon the man's age and physical condition, as upon the search party's success in finding him.

After supper they retired to the parlor, piled the fire high and sat grouped before it, the smoke of cigars and cigarettes lying about their heads in white layers. It was but natural that the conversation should turn on stories of the great storms of the past. Rose had heard many such before, but to-night, with the wind rocking the old hotel and the thought of the lost man heavy at her heart, she listened, held in a cold clutch of fascinated attention, to tales of the emigrants caught in the passes of the Sierra, of pioneer mining-camps, relieved by mule trains which broke through the snow-blockade as the miners lay dying in their huts, of men risking their lives to carry succor to comrades lost in their passage from camp to camp on just such a night as this.

The clock had passed ten, and the periods of silence that at intervals had fallen on the watchers grew longer and more frequent, and finally merged into a stillness where all sat motionless, listening to the storm.

It was nearly eleven, and for fifteen minutes no one had spoken a word. Two of the dogs had come in and lain down on the hearth-rug, their noses on their paws, their eyes fixed brightly and ponderingly on the fire. In the midst of the motionless semicircle of them suddenly raised its head, its ears pricked. With its muzzle elevated, its eyes full of awakened intelligence, it gave a low, uneasy whimper. Almost simultaneously Rose started and drew herself up, exclaiming, "Listen!" The sound of sleigh bells, faint as a noise in a dream, came through the night.

In a moment the lower floor was shaken with movement and noise. The bar emptied itself on to the porch and the hall doors were thrown wide. The sleigh had been close to the hotel before its bells were heard, and almost immediately its shape emerged from the swirling whiteness and drew up at the steps. Rose, standing back in the parlor doorway, heard a clamor of voices, a rising surge of sound from which no intelligible sentence detached itself, and a thumping and stamping of feet as the searchers staggered in with the lost traveler. The crowd separated before them and they entered slowly, four men carrying a fifth, their bodies incrustated with snow, the man they bore an unseen shape covered with whitened rugs from which an arm hung, a limp hand touching the floor. Questions and answers, now clear and sharp, followed them, like notes upon the text of the their form:

"Where'd you get him?"

"About five miles below on the main road. One of the horses almost stepped on him. He was right in the path, but he was all sprinkled over with snow."

"He's not dead, is he?"

"Pretty near, I guess. We've pumped whisky into him, but he ain't shown a sign of life."

"Who is he?"

"Search me. I ain't seen him myself yet. Just as we got him the lantern went out."

There was a sofa in the hall and they laid their burden there, the crowd edging in on them, horrified, interested, hungrily peering. Rose could see their bent, expressive backs and the craning napes of their necks. Then a sharp order from the doctor drove them back, sheepish, tramping on one another's toes, bunched against the wall and still avidly staring. As their ranks broke, the young girl had a sudden, vivid glimpse of the man, his head and part of his chest uncovered. Her heart gave a leap of pity and she made a movement from the doorway, then stopped. The lost traveler, that an hour before had almost assumed the features of a friend, was a complete stranger that she had never seen before.

Poisonous Metals in Foods.
A pure food investigation by Dr. Carlo Formenti of Milan has dealt with poisonous metals in food supplies. Most metal salts are poisonous, and are liable to occur in acid foods and drinks from chemical action on containing vessels. Lemonade and other acid drinks so popular in America, and even carbonated waters, often contain lead.

Eating Fish in Lent Aided Navy.
The connection between fish eating during Lent and a strong navy may appear remote, but to Elizabethan statesmen it seemed vital. So much so that a law was passed commanding everyone to eat fish on every day of Lent. The reasons set forth for this enactment made no mention of religious observance. It stated the queen needed ships for defense and the fishing industry furnished men at all times in readiness for her majesty's service.

STATE OF WISCONSIN—
Circuit Court for Rock County.

Advertisement for the sale of notes or bonds of said district.

Notice is hereby given by the undersigned commissioners of the Stokes Drainage District that they desire to borrow money for the construction of the drainage ditches ordered by said Court upon notes or bonds to be issued by them, and for that purpose hereby offer for sale notes or bonds of said district to the amount of eight thousand eight hundred forty-eight and 50/100 dollars, in sums to suit purchasers, not less than one hundred dollars in each note or bond. Such notes or bonds to be dated June 13, 1912, and to bear six per cent. interest per annum from said date, such interest to be payable quarterly, on the 1st day of January, April, July and October, 1913, and annually thereafter; the principal of said notes or bonds to be payable in five equal annual installments, the first such installment to become due and payable on the first day of February, 1914, and one such installment shall become due and payable on the first day of February in each year thereafter until all shall be paid, the purchase of each note or bond to pay the interest thereon from its date to the day of purchase.

The said commissioners hereby invite sealed proposals to furnish the money, desired, by purchasing such notes or bonds to take the same at the best premium the proposer will offer; such proposals to be addressed to the Clerk of the County Court, in care of Burr Sprague, Attorney at Law, at Janesville, Wisconsin, and delivered personally or by mail on or before the 10th day of August, 1912, at twelve o'clock, M.

The Commissioners reserve the right to reject any and all bids and to postpone the sale of any part of such bonds.

Dated July 15, 1912.

ADVERTISEMENT FOR BIDS

For the excavation of two drainage ditches.

Sealed bids will be received by the commissioners of the Stokes Drainage District of the Township of Avon, Rock County, Wis., at the office of Burr Sprague, Attorney, Brodhead, Wis., up to Saturday, August 10, 1912, for the excavation of the two drainage ditches of said district. The work consists of the excavation of about 53,000 cu. yds. of earth. The main ditch is 13,717 ft. long with a six ft. bottom 1 1/2 to 1 side slopes and about five ft. deep. There is one highway to cross, and there are trees to clear from the right of way, near the lower end. The ditch is 7,170 ft. long, 4 ft. bottom with 1 1/2 to 1 side slopes and about five ft. deep. There is one highway to cross, and there are trees to clear from the right of way, near the lower end. The work is probably best suited for a dry land machine. The lower ends of the two ditches are a mile apart. Below, Wis., Brodhead, Wis., near Danz, Ill. are convenient ship points.

The work is about ten miles from each point. Plans and specifications can be seen at the Farmers & Merchants Bank, at the office of Burr Sprague, Brodhead, Wis., and at the office of R. S. Owen, Engineer, Madison, Wis. Each bid must be accompanied by a certified check for $2000 to insure the proper execution of a contract and approved bond for $10,000 to insure the completion of the work. All bids to be at so much per cu. yd. Estimates the first of each month. 5% of estimate paid by the 15th, balance within ten days after the contract has been completed. The right is reserved to reject any and all bids. There are other ditches to be dug in this locality later.

General specifications for Stokes Drainage District. These are to be identical with the general specifications for the Badger Drainage District No. 1, as given by E. R. Jones, synopsis of Wisconsin Drainage Laws as given on pages 17 and 18 with the following changes:

1. Slopes: All sections will be cut as steep as the Engineer and in all cases unless otherwise ordered conformed to a 1 1/2 to 1 slope.

2. Right of Way: Will not be less than four ft. wide between edge of ditch and foot of slope of waste bank.

3. Clearing: All grubbing or clearing of stumps, trees or brush shall be done by the contractor and shall be included in his bid for construction and the chance so grubbed and cleared may be used for eroding by contractor, but will remain the property of the owner of the land and must be restored by contractor.

4. Bridges: The bridge on the Elstead ditch will be removed and replaced at no expense to the contractor; and contractor to exercise great care not to disturb the foundation of said bridge.

5. Quality of Work: The standard of Laying: Omit and paragraph regarding the construction of a catch basin on the south side of Lincoln Street.

The form of contract as given on page 19 of the synopsis of Wisconsin Drainage Laws is recommended.

Dated July 15, 1912.

UNCLE WALT The Poet Philosopher Copyright, 1909, by George Matthew Adams BY WALT MASON

Eschew the things you like the best—the steaks and oyster fries, and swallow down with eager zest, the things that you despise. Fill up with greens and milk and bran and toast, graham bread, and you will be a healthy man, providing you're not dead.

Health is the thing without a price—it surely is the goods, so read the safe and sane advice of men like Hutchings, and bathe yourself ten times a day in shredded gasoline, and eat three kinds of clover hay, and eat them when they're green. Be sure and wear a cheesecloth suit when you are on the street, and have a screen door in each boot to ventilate your feet. Remember, water should be fried before it's fit to drink; if germs and microbes get inside, they'll put you on the blink. Engage a specialist you will to manicure your teeth, and fumigate, with splendid skill, the hangdowns underneath. Deodorize your tainted wealth, wear medicated socks, and soon you'll have such perfect health they'll put you in a box.

Delicate-Attention. Mrs. Fitz-Bile—Of course I know you do not care for me. Why, you even forgot my birthday.

Fitz-Bile—A bit of delicacy on my part, madam. I did not fail to remember that you had come to the point where your birthday ought to be forgotten.—Tit-Bits.

Among the Speechmakers. Arithmetic is all the rage. We're happy as the birds. Divide up the offices. Or multiply'n' words.

THE RETORT UNKIND. Ella—I enjoy going to a masquerade ball. Stella—It does give you a good excuse to cover up your face.

IT COULD NOT HAPPEN. A newspaper having offered a prize for the most impossible item of local news, the competition was won by a wildly imaginative genius, who sent in the following brief story: "A cabman and a bus driver came into collision in the street with their vehicles so that their wheels were locked. 'My dear sir,' said the cabman. 'I'm very sorry for this accident. Will you kindly excuse me?' 'Pray do not mention it, my dear sir,' replied the bus driver. 'The fault was mine, rather than yours.' 'And after getting clear of each other they bowed politely and proceeded about their business with a pleasant 'good day.'—Tit-Bits.

LANDS

ADVERTISERS—The great state of North Dakota, offers unlimited opportunities for business to classified advertisers. The recognized advertising medium is the Fargo Daily and Sunday Courier-News, the only seven day paper in the state and the paper which carries the largest amount of classified advertising. The Courier-News covers North Dakota like a blanket, reaching all parts of the state the day of publication; it is the paper to use in order to get results. Rates: One cent per word first insertion; one-half cent per word succeeding insertions; fifty cents per line per month. Address: The Courier-News, Fargo, N. D. 20-1t

FIND LAND BUYERS through advertising in the Daily Journal-World, Lawrence, Kansas. The farm lands about Lawrence are the finest in Kansas and therefore are high priced. Young farmers are looking for cheaper farms. The Daily Journal-World has a sworn circulation of 5,500, about half of which is in the country, and carries a full page of Want Ads. Rates: 10 per word 1 time, 3 1/2 per word for one week. The World Company, Lawrence, Kansas. 48-1t

FARMS FOR SALE—Southwest Iowa is one of the richest agricultural districts in the world and the Daily Nonpareil is practically the only daily paper read in this territory. It is issued morning, evening and Sunday, and with its 17,000 circulation covers the field like a blanket. If you want results from your advertisement, try it. One cent a word for the first insertion, and one-half cent a word for each subsequent insertion. Classified in display 25c an inch. The Daily Nonpareil, Council Bluffs, Iowa. 45-1t

ADVERTISERS—In placing your ad, three things must be considered—circulation, class of readers and price. The Reporter gives your ad greater measure of service for less money than any other newspaper in northern Iowa. The Reporter is read by 30,000 people every issue. Advertising rates one-half cent a word, each insertion. Cash with order. Reporter, Waterloo, Iowa. 46-1t

IF YOU ARE interested in real estate in the Northwest, you will do well to place an ad in the Want Columns of the Aberdeen Daily News, Aberdeen, S. D., the best advertising medium in this territory. Read every day by more than 25,000 people. Rates: 1 cent per word, first insertion, special rate by the week or month. Write for sample copy. 45-1t

Wrong, as Usual. Judge—You have testified that you saw the man's automobile run over the old gentleman?

Witness—Yes, sir, the auto was 41, 144, N. J. I took the number before the car got away.

"You say you are a telephone girl?"

"Yes, sir."

"Prisoner discharged."

Father and Son.

"A penny saved is twopence earned." As when a boy at school, you learned. You saved your pennies—quite a hoard—And Johnny drops them in the slot.

The Test. "There is nothing real about that melodrama."

"Then you didn't see the real money they are taking in at the box office."

Want Ads bring good results

PUBLIC IS ASKED TO AID IN THE MATTER

Persons Answering Fraudulent Advertisements Asked to Notify Gazette.

The Gazette is desirous of keeping out of its columns fraudulent advertising and asks the assistance of its patrons to that end. There are any number of concerns in the country who make a living through a nicely worded advertisement, offering golden opportunities, and these unscrupulous people find fertile ground for work among the masses. Many orders are received in the Gazette mail for advertising which are returned as objectionable and where there is a question as to the qualifications the advertisement is omitted. All newspapers have this experience. But even with the utmost care there will be an occasional advertisement which will pass the scrutiny of the business department of the paper and find its way into the columns. The Gazette will deem it a favor if you will report to the office any trouble which may have been experienced through the answering of such an advertisement.
